Has Clear Field for Study While Congress Takes Summer Recess

Washington—Emphasis is to be on foreign policies during the next few weeks that congress is in recess. President Hoover has been trying to concentrate on the armament problem while he has been busy with farm relief and the tariff but now he has a clear field for the all-important negotiations that may mean far-reaching changes in the relations between Europe and the United States.

Mr. Hoover from the beginning has approached the question of foreign relations with a recognition of how vital the economic aspects will be on both sides of the Atlantic. The cutting-down of the budgets in Europe is no less a matter of concern here than the possible assistance that will be rendered to the peace movement as a whole if a satisfactory arrangement can be made to limit armament.

Mr. Hoover feels that until an agreement is reached on what constitutes a satisfactory amount of naval protection for each country, there will necessarily be mutual suspicion if not distrust and that as soon as the whole naval question is out of the way further steps may be taken to make the Kellogg anti-war treaties effective.

MANY AUTO ACCIDENTS DURING PAST WEEKEND

Milwaukee —(P)—Two dead, 23 injured in Milwaukee's automobile toll over the weekend. Miss Dorothy Randall, 26, of Wausau, was killed early Monday when the car in which she was riding, met another in a head-on collision. ONE DEAD AT KENOSHA

Two Milwaukee men, Arthur Brown, 27, and Anton Treiner, 35, suffered fractured skulls and other serious injuries when the coupe in which they were riding near here went into a ditch last night.

Thousands Attend First Flower Show Here

Couple Fails In Effort To Flee Prison

Aged Cell House Keeper and Turnkey Prevent Escape at Waupun

Waupun —(P)—Two men attempted to break out of Waupun prison, but failed to reckon with the courage of 60-year-old cell house keeper and a turnkey.

As a result, they were in solitary confinement today while Warden Oscar Lee sought advice from the attorney general on the proposal that he file charges of attempted jail break and assault against them.

The men, John R. McClintick and Arnold Nolte, made their attempt to escape Saturday afternoon just as the prisoners were being led out of their cells for the regular Saturday afternoon baseball game between the prison team and an outside club.

Prisoner officials did not make known the thwarting of the break until yesterday.

McClintick in Tier 2 dropped from the file of prisoners and hid behind the cell block. Nolte in a tier below McClintick's remained in his cell.

After the prisoners had filed out, Henry Minke, 60, a cell housekeeper, was inspecting the second tier to lock the cells of prisoners who did not care to attend the game when McClintick accosted him with an imitation revolver, made from a piece of lead pipe and some wood. Minke rushed at him and was grappling with him when Nolte swung himself up from the tier below and seized Minke, meantime cautioning McClintick:

"Don't hit him too hard. He's a pretty good guy."

CAUGHT BY WARDEN
The two overpowered Minke and tied him with bedding, meanwhile quieting the other prisoners with the assurance that a doctor would soon arrive to care for the keeper.

As the two were moving toward a door, Dan Corda, a turnkey, entered to summon Minke to the main office. The men set upon him and threw him into a cell and had reached the door to the lobby when Warden Lee informed of the attempted break by a guard who noticed the fight, entered and captured the pair.

McClintick robbed the South Side State bank here two years ago and escaped under a shower of shotgun fire from pursuing volunteers.

About a week later he was captured by three officers who awaited him in his room. He engaged in a terrific hand-to-hand fight with the officers and nearly escaped. It was discovered that the man who was wounded during his fight from the back, is originally from Indianapolis and was serving a term of 15 to 25 years.

Nolte, Milwaukee holdup man, was serving from 3 to 30 years. The men will face an additional ten years imprisonment if convicted of the attempted escape and assault charges.

FOUR GUNMEN GET $5,000 IN ROBBERY AT THEATRE

Chicago —(P)—Four gunmen held up the assistant manager of the Oriental theatre, downtown movie house, at 9 o'clock today and escaped with $5,000 taken from the safe.

The robbery was timed before the general staff of employees arrived and was carried out by a ruse, the quartet informing the doorman, George Rosenthal, that they were a concert party and summoned for repair work in the theatre. One inside they flashed revolvers and ordered Rosenthal to guide them to the manager's office.

There the bandits forced George Taber, assistant manager, to open the safe and hand over the Sunday receipts. Then, with a threat, they stepped into an automobile at the curb and drove away.

The Oriental is one of the largest movie theatres in downtown Chicago, located on Randolph near State st.

DAWES DENIES RUMORS HE'LL SERVE LIQUORS

"I never served alcohol in my home in Washington or in my home before that. I see no reason why I should change my procedure here in London."

HUGE DISPLAY FILLS FLOOR OF ARMORY G

Huge Throng Sees Exhibits Arranged by Flower and Garden Society

If a lost elf, wandering in the business district Saturday afternoon, had been drawn by strains of the "Wedding of the Painted Doll" into the Armory where jollity of sound vied with rollick of color, he would have found a flower fairland that would make him return to the floral beauties of his old home doll with exalted ideas.

The Armory, transformed into Appleton's first flower show, gave an impression of a many-faced diamond, lovely in its entirety, with each section a unit of unexcelled beauty.

The show was the first large effort of the Flower and Garden society formed about six months ago under the sponsorship of Oney Johnston post of the American legion. The legion's purpose in organizing the society is to foster a love for flowers to the end that Appleton will be one of the most beautiful cities in America.

Among the many interesting exhibits were the six shadow boxes arranged along two sides of the armory. These exhibits were judged by Mrs. Mark S. Catlin who awarded first place to Mrs. J. P. Frank, second place to Mrs. C. E. Mullen, third place to Mrs. Ronald B. Rogers of Neenah and fourth place to Mrs. E. J. Lackman, Jr., of Neenah.

Credit for the success of the show must go to Mrs. D. J. O'Connor, show superintendent, and H. A. Schlicht, president of the Flower and Garden society. Assisted by a group of men and women who worked unselfishly and untiringly for days and days, they evolved a show that made a tremendous impression.

It is estimated that between five and seven thousand people visited the show.

Practically every flower grown in this section of the country had its place in the exhibit. There were soft, velvety pansies—blue, purple, brown-black, lavender and yellow; Canterbury bells that looked like glass globes with crimped edges; bowls of Sweet William like a highly colored patchwork quilt; baskets of climbing roses, pale pink against a

ARMY AND NAVY GAME NEGOTIATIONS ARE ON

Washington —(P)—Secretary Good announced today that he had begun negotiations with Secretary Adams with a view to the resumption of football relations between West Point and Annapolis.

Full details on the question of eligibility rule which resulted in a disruption of the games between the service schools have been asked of the general staff by the secretary.

He said that since the schedules of the Army and Navy have been completed for a considerable time in advance, any games which they might play this year as a result of a favorable completion of the negotiations would have to be outside the schedules.

MANY HURT AS CROWD RUNS WILD AT WHARF

London —(P)—The daily sketch said today that many were injured and some fainting when a crowd of several thousands inspecting a fleet of destroyers got out of control on Traford wharf, Manchester, yesterday.

There were so many aboard the ships one of them nearly capsized when the crowd rushed to one side. Nurses and ambulances were sent for to treat numbers of fainting women and slightly injured children. The warships were considerably damaged by meddlers whom the sailors and police were unable to control.

One person was pushed overboard but was rescued.

The family was picnicking at the lake and after dinner Reich took his son for a swim. He stepped into a hole and went down. The body was taken to Watford and then to the home in Milwaukee. No inquest will be held.

Tunney Files Answer To Action By Mrs. Fogarty

Denies All Charges and Moves to Restrain Further Action by Woman

Bridgport, Conn. —(P)—James J. (Gene) Tunney, retired heavyweight champion of the world, in an answer today to the $500,000 breach of promise suit brought against him by Mrs. Katherine King Fogarty of Fort Texas, and New York city, denies that he had ever asked her to marry him, but reveals that he had paid her sums of money exceeding $25,000 to "relinquish all claims on him."

The answer, filed by Homer S. Cummings of Stamford, charges Mrs. Fogarty with an attempt to exploit, for personal notoriety and financial gain, an acquaintanceship with Tunney and prays that she be forever restrained from further annoying the defendant, through law suits.

It is revealed in the answer that Tunney, wishing to protect the late

Tex Rickard and the Rickard Sporting club from financial loss in connection with the staging of the second fight with Dempsey and the fight with Tom Honey, paid Mrs. Fogarty, through his manager, Bill Gibson, various sums of money so that she would sign a waiver of claims on him. Included in the answer is an affidavit by Mrs. Fogarty on July 24, 1925, reading:

"I had hopes to continue to enjoy his (Tunney's) friendship, but that does not seem any longer possible for either of us."

The payments to Mrs. Fogarty by Gibson—only two are mentioned $1 and $5,000—preceded the affidavit, according to the answer, and was made as a "matter of good business judgment" as Mrs. Fogarty was "sprawling libelous statements injurious to the defendant."

The answer intimates that the "wide publicity" given the Fogarty breach of promise suit was "arranged by Mrs. Fogarty" or her

Milan, Italy —(P)—Captain Adani Kowalczyk and Captain Wodzimierz Klisz, who are planning a flight from this city to Chicago via Dublin have chosen Independence day as the date for their take-off from Milan. They explained that they selected July 4 for the start of their venture as a mark of homage to America.

Dubois, Pa. —(P)—Thwarted by bad weather and an accident, Leo Schoenhair, west coast pilot, was supervising repairs to his plane today in preparation for another attempt to set a trans-continental non-stop flight record.

The plane was damaged yesterday when he tried to take off from Roosevelt field, N. Y., after having been forced down here by thunderstorms and failing oil pressure.

He arrived here from Cleveland where he had been forced down by fog Saturday night after a flight of 14 hours and nine minutes from Los Angeles, at an average of 170 miles an hour. He took off from Cleveland at 11:30 a. m. landing here an hour later.

When the weather cleared he attempted to take off again but the plane crashed, tearing off the landing gear and damaging the fuselage. He suffered minor injuries.

He telephoned friends who were awaiting his arrival at Roosevelt field, telling them of the accident and saying that he would not proceed until the plane had been repaired.

He said when the plane was in condition he would attempt to set an east to west flight record.

SHARP CLASH IN REICHSTAG ON DEBT PLAN

Nationalists War on Stresemann—Minister Outlines Policies

Berlin —(P)—The Nationalists today submitted to the Reichstag a no confidence motion against Dr. Gustav Stresemann, German foreign minister for the past five years.

Foreign Minister Stresemann told the Reichstag today that Germany would not stand for the installation of a commission in the Rhineland as the price of its evacuation.

At the same time he declared that President Von Hindenburg and the members of the cabinet would support the manifestations this week against the treaty of Versailles, especially the clause by which Germany acknowledged sole guilt for the war.

The foreign minister's statements were made in the course of a speech replying to severe criticism by Count Westarp, leader of the Nationalists.

Dr. Stresemann made a vigorous defense of the German government's foreign policy, particularly with reference to the reparations problem.

The foreign minister declared that the newly drawn up Young plan was a definite improvement over the Dawes plan from the viewpoint of the burden on Germany. As to its future he said: "Nobody in the world can give an absolute guarantee as to its workability. The experts themselves stated that the maximum forecast can be for only ten years."

SLAP AT AMERICA
Dr. Stresemann's only reference to the United States, which, however, he did not mention directly, was his answer to the nationalist charge that Germany was becoming a colony of France and England.

"No, we are not a colony of Frenchmen and Englishmen," he said. "To me it seems doubtful whether all Europe is not in danger of becoming a colony of those who are luckier than we. The fact that the colonies sit down together to work out amelioration for each other because others did not give them amelioration—that is something that cannot be removed from the history of the Paris negotiations."

The foreign minister, despite his recent illness delivered his speech with great vigor. He was felt in great measure to have taken the wind out of the nationalist sails by

Gravel Pit Caves In, Buries Man

Buried under a land slide in a gravel pit on county trunk S, about three-quarters of a mile north of Hortonville, John Fulcer, 42, Hortonville contractor, was killed about 5:45 Saturday afternoon.

Although the body was exhumed about 20 minutes later, a physician pronounced him dead. Death was due to suffocation.

Fulcer, who was working in the pit with two employees, Len Steens and J. Hoffman, had gone under an overhanging shelf of gravel to repair a cable, when part of the shelf suddenly gave way, burying him almost to his waist.

His employees discovered his plight immediately and started to dig away the dirt imprisoning him, but they had not progressed far before another slide started. Unable to free him, they were forced to flee for their own lives. The second slide buried the contractor under six feet of earth. The men then resumed their rescue work, but they were unable to get their employer out for about 20 minutes, and he was already dead.

Mr. Fulcer is survived by his widow; two children, Marvin and Vernita; parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Fulcer; three sisters, Mrs. Walter Watson, Mrs. William Watson, and Mrs. John Haines; and four brothers, Mr. Frank, Morton, and Edward, all of Hortonville.

The body was taken to the T. J. Schmidt Funeral Home. The funeral will be held at 1:30 Tuesday afternoon at the home, and at 2 o'clock at the Baptist church, with the Rev. Robert O'Neil, Pittsville, in charge. Burial will be in the Union cemetery at Hortonville.

PROFESSOR DENIED U. S. CITIZENSHIP

Yale Theology Teacher Pledges Aid Only in Event of "Justified War"

New Haven, Conn. —(P)—Prof. Douglas C. MacIntosh, Dwight professor of theology in Yale Divinity school, who would not promise to "defend the United States against all enemies" was denied American citizenship by Federal Judge Warren F. Burrows today.

Professor MacIntosh reiterated his refusal to defend the nation in any war except a "justified war." In a 200-word written statement he expanded his views on the subject, saying that he "could" be willing to take up arms in defense of the United States but he reserved the right to serve only when the cause is just.

"I could swear allegiance to the United States as fully as to any country," he said, "and I know of no duty higher than that to my country."

Judge Burrows then said that the president of the United States must in time of war have absolute power and control over the nation and individual discretion could not be contemplated. There would be no unity in defense, he said, only chaos.

"Persons taking the kind of oath you wish to take would furnish the country with citizens who are good citizens in peace time and poor ones in war time," said Judge Burrows.

"When the powder begins to burn and the bullets begin to fly, there would be no one who would believe in just cause."

Dean Charles E. Clark of the Yale law school, representing the divinity professor, pointed to his character reputation and distinguished military service for Canada and the United States during the World war, but Judge Burrows said that an alien must take the full required oath or he would not become a citizen.

Dean Clark said he would take an appeal from the decision.

Professor MacIntosh is a native of Canada.

LONDON PAYS ITS LAST RESPECTS TO GEN. BOOTH

London —(P)—One of the great, est popular outpourings in English annals for the funeral of a great man was witnessed today when final honors were paid to the late General William Eramwell Booth, former commander-in-chief of the Salvation Army.

The same motor car which carried him thousands of miles during his lifetime in many campaigns for "soul saving" bore his body today on its last journey from Salvation Army headquarters to Abney Park cemetery in northern London.

Tens of thousands of Londoners, heads bared, lined the streets along which the cortege passed from the hearse, taking the same path the body of his father, General William Booth, took in 1912 to a grave nearby where his son was buried today.

SPAIN STARTS SEARCH FOR 4 MISSING MEN

Gunboats Search Area Where British Ship Encountered Wreckage

CANADIANS KEEP WATCH

Flare Near Newfoundland Indicates Franco May Have Changed Plans

BULLETIN
Horta, Azores —(P)—As the day wore on, Horta was still without word of the Spanish fliers under Major Ramon Franco, who hopped off from Cartagena last Friday morning for New York by way of the Azores.

Ponta Delgada, by way of Lisbon, Portugal —(P)—The Portuguese gunboat Zaires late this afternoon had not reported any success in her search for the missing trans-Atlantic seaplane.

KEEP CAREFUL WATCH
Halifax, N. S. —(P)—A close watch was being kept today by wireless stations along the Canadian coast for word of the Spanish fliers. Ships were asked for information. Radio stations along the New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Labrador coasts, controlled by the Canadian government report to the superintendent in Halifax, who today announced that there was nothing new.

DESTROYERS SENT OUT
Madrid —(P)—Alarmed by the disappearance of Major Ramon Franco and three companions on a flight to New York by way of the Azores, the Spanish authorities today dispatched destroyers and airplanes to scour the sea between the Spanish coast and the Azores.

The Spanish government was particularly eager to run down a report from the British merchant ship Golden stating that this ship saw an airplane wreckage floating in the sea about 100 miles off the Azores. There were no persons aboard.

As soon as this report was received the ministry of the navy dispatched five destroyers from Ferrol with orders to patrol the district northeast of the Azores in the hope of finding the wreckage, whose identity was not established definitely by the Golden.

The destroyers sent on this duty were the Alsedo, the Sanchez, the Barandiaran, the Velasco and the Lazaga.

In addition to sending out this squadron as well as other squadrons to the Azores, the ministry requested all steamers in the area surrounding the Azores to keep a sharp lookout in the hope of sighting the wreckage and determining its identity definitely.

The plane, a Dornier Wal-hydro-airplane, left Cartagena, Spain, on Friday afternoon. Several messages from it were picked up, the last 12 hours after the departure. On Saturday morning the Portuguese warship Vasco da Gama, reported picking up a message from Major Franco stating that he had reached the Azores and would continue to New York Sunday. When the fliers could not be located anywhere in the Azores, fears for their safety began to arise until it was decided to send destroyers to look for them.

Whether they came down at some isolated point in the Azores, losing the use of their radio on lighting in the water after sending a message of their arrival, or whether they decided to continue straight on to New York without stopping, were questions still unsolved today.

FLARE IS SEEN
New York —(P)—A steamship's report of the sighting of a flare, believed that of an airplane, 400 miles south of Cape Race, Newfoundland, Sunday morning, raised curiosity today as to whether the Spanish trans-Atlantic fliers attempted to cross to the American coast without first stopping at the Azores.

Since more than enough time had elapsed since the sighting of the

HENRY MEYER CRUSHED AS BRICKS FALL

Chest Crushed and Bones Broken in Accident at Interlake Mill

Henry Meyer, 46, of Kimberly, Wis., was seriously injured Saturday morning while at work running the old digester of the Interlake Pulp and Paper company when a section of brick about four feet square fell on him and pinned him to the ground. He is confined in St. Elizabeth's hospital suffering from a crushed chest, six broken ribs, a double fracture of the right leg, severe scalp wounds and other body injuries, according to reports. His condition is said to be critical. Meyer and other employees of the paper company were tazing the interior flume of the old digester, and bricks were being taken down in sections. He was undermining a section approximately four feet square when it gave way and fell on him. Alfred Doerfler, 343 W. Wisconsin, who was working on the north side with Meyer heard the rumble of the bricks as they were torn from the wall and shouted warning, but Meyer was standing beneath the section and couldn't get away. He was removed from the debris by fellow workmen and was taken to the hospital.

STIMSON GETS REPORT OF RUM RUNNER FIGHT

Washington (AP)—A preliminary report of the firing on an American customs patrol boat on June 19 by a rum smuggler which retreated into Canadian waters off Detroit was received today by the treasury and forwarded to Secretary Stimson of the state department. The treasury declined to make public the report but said that it agreed substantially with the press reports of the affair. The investigation will continue with a view of identifying the rum boat and ascertain whether the two men on it were Americans or Canadians. The boat, customs officers reported, was easily identified and on the morning of the incident had made several futile attempts to run a load of liquor from Canadian docks into the United States. The treasury expected no further action to be taken until its investigation was completed.

THREE KILLED BY STORM IN CANADIAN TERRITORY

Montreal (AP)—A violent storm that caused three deaths and heavy property damage last night marked the climax of eight days of intense heat. The storm, sweeping the country south in the Laurentian mountains, crippled communication lines, overturned automobiles and wrecked farm buildings in its path. At Anse de Vaudreuil, a summer resort, two men were drowned when their boats were overturned by the storm's sudden onslaught. Another person was drowned in Mississippi bay, 80 miles south of Montreal, when a motorboat was overturned. Fragmentary reports, brought by highway travelers from the north, where telegraph lines were down, in indicated heavy property damage between LacHute and St. Eustache.

CONVENT DESTROYED BY FIRE; LOSS IS MILLION

Montreal (AP)—Struck by lightning, the Convent of the Sacred Heart at Sault au Recllet was a ruin today. Fire, discovered half an hour after the flash of lightning had struck the metallic roof, burned the structure yesterday. All of the occupants, including 22 convalescent nuns, escaped. The four-story stone building and its contents were a total loss, estimated at $1,000,000. The storm crippled fire alarms and telephone lines so that arrival of firemen was delayed. As the roof and floors fell, the walls crumbled until nothing remained standing but a section of the front wall surmounted by a cross and a stuffed eagle. Four firemen were hurt. The convent, which was conducted by the Ladies of the Sacred Heart, was widely known as an educational institution.

BUILDING PERMITS

Four building permits were issued Saturday by John Weinand, building inspector. They were granted to Robert Rohm, Chicago, at 1902 N. Alvin st., cost $50; Jantz Cedar Co., office building at 797 N. Lincolnwood, cost $800; Dan Hare garage and addition residence at 912 N. Richmond, cost $250; and John Fransway, Jr., residence and garage at 1750 N. Clark-st., cost $3,000. COLUMBUS BISHOP IS RECEIVED BY PONTIFF. Vatican City (AP)—Pope Pius today granted an audience to Bishop James J. Hartley of Columbus, Ohio, now here on a visit. The pontiff seemed pleased with the bishop's report on the progress of the diocese of Columbus and asked a number of questions concerning the schools, charities and social welfare work. He then imparted the apostolic benediction upon the bishop's parishioners. 1929 New Essex, License. Newman Motor Car Co.

CHURCH TO CONDUCT SPECIAL SERVICES IN GOLFING SEASON

Chicago (AP)—The Presbyterian church at Itasca, DuPage co., has arranged Sunday services so that caddies on the six golf courses nearby, as well as golfers themselves, may attend church and play golf without one interfering with the other. A special Sunday school for caddies is held throughout the golfing season, beginning at 7:30 a. m. Half an hour later services are held for golfers. The pastor, the Rev. Lester E. Bond, announced that parking space for golf equipment has been provided in an anteroom. "Many of our local residents, especially caddies, could not attend services at the usual hour in the morning," the pastor said, "and many persons who come here from Chicago to play golf would not break into their game to go to church. Now we have conformed our Sunday schedule to golfing hours and the church attendance proves we are doing the most expedient thing."

REICHSTAG IN CLASH OVER YOUNG PLAN

stating unequivocally that Germany would not stand for the installation of a commission in the Rhineland as the price of its evacuation and by announcing that President Hindenburg as well as the cabinet stood behind manifestations against the treaty of Versailles scheduled for June 26 especially the clause acknowledging Germany's sole guilt for the war. Count Westarp, in opening the debate, criticized the Reichstag for letting seven months pass without public discussion of foreign policy. ATTACKS YOUNG PLAN. Discussing the Young plan, Count Westarp asserted that Germany, in accepting the Dawes plan, had the excuse that it had been forced upon her, whereas the Young plan was adopted by the experts acting as free agents. His acceptance therefore was far more serious. The Nationalists, he declared, would oppose unhesitatingly future generations as "contaminated by the plan." The remainder of his speech was taken up with an analysis of Dr. Stresemann's five years direction of foreign affairs which he claimed was a complete failure. Dr. Stresemann took up the Nationalist arguments point by point. As far as the Young plan was concerned he said that the sole issue was the question whether the bonds with which Germany was tied had become lighter or heavier. He declared that the Young plan was definitely lighter than the Dawes plan. He referred to the Nationalist claim that the unworkability of the Dawes plan should first have been demonstrated clearly. Dr. Stresemann said this would have led to a crisis similar to that which provoked invasion of the Ruhr. "Let us frankly admit we were mistaken about the possibility of holding out in the Ruhr fight," he admonished his hearers. He drew a picture of the disastrous results of the Ruhr controversy and added: "One thing we are sure of, namely that the Ruhr and the Ruhr remains a danger. So far as it affected the economic situation we were very much mistaken."

REFUSES DETAILS. Reiterating that the reparations experts were independent negotiators, the foreign minister said that the cabinet had agreed to use the Young plan as the basis for a coming international political conference. At the same time he declined to go into the details for the cabinet's action. Regarding the Madrid parleys, Dr. Stresemann said: "It would mean the end of such talks if they became the subject of debate in parliament. Naturally, I must report on them to the cabinet. This much I can say, however, that any negotiations over evacuation of the Rhineland binging in the so called commission of conciliation, stand outside all discussion so far as Germany is concerned. We had no intention of decreasing the meaning of the Locarno pact and are willing to let all negotiations on this point come to naught if the attempt is made once more to install a permanent commission in the Rhineland." In conclusion, Dr. Stresemann turned to the Versailles anniversary with the declaration that the government was back of the manifestations as far as war guilt was concerned but the question of debts should not be tied with war guilt. In a direct circles throughout the world and in all countries, he said the viewpoint held by Germany prevailed. "It is certainly an entirely erroneous interpretation to assert that war debts are the result of this single section of the Versailles treaty in stead of being the result of a lost World war," he stated.

Her right foot was slightly injured and her forehead was bruised. The driver of the automobile, Rogers Hebel, 318 N. TWO GANGMEN KILLED, ONE HURT IN FIGHT

Gun Battle Is Staged Before Fashionable Hotel in Kansas City

Kansas City (AP)—Two gangsters, one wanted in Chicago and Los Angeles for murder, are dead and a third is in a hospital wounded in the back following a midnight gun battle among themselves in front of a fashionable hotel Saturday night. The five men who had been drinking in a room in the hotel, police said, walked out of the building quarreling over a revolver. Several minutes later they began shooting at each other while huddled on the sidewalk. Two of the men, whose names were not learned by the police, escaped. Ben Barrett, 42, alias Fred Roberts was killed instantly and Arthur Hartman, about 35, was fatally wounded. Kearns Pumpsey, alias Kearns Humphrey, was shot in the back. Hospital attendants said he would recover. Hartman died yesterday afternoon. The quarrel began in the hotel room when Pumpsey took Barrett's gun and gave it to Hartman. Pumpsey said Barrett was drunk and had been flashing it frequently. Just as the men left the hotel, Hartman refused Barrett's demand for his revolver. "Just then Barrett's hand made a dive for his other gun," Pumpsey said, "and we all drew, knowing that Barrett never joked about drawing a revolver. We all started shooting at once and in the huddle, I guess we shot each other."

In addition, Tunney's answer claims that Mrs. Fogarty is using the "curt" to "vex and trouble" him unlawfully, to extort money from him. "To gam, for the publication of libelous charges, immunity from penalty of the libel law by relying upon the privilege attendant to pending litigation," and "to secure from newspapers and notoriety-distributing agencies" large sums of money for her statements and photographs. Tunney's denial that he had asked Mrs. Fogarty to marry him on June 2, 1925, a few days after she had been divorced from John S. Fogarty of Fort Worth, is contained in the general statement. "The defendant denies the truth of the matter in the plaintiff's complaint." There is no specific mention of the alleged marriage proposal or acceptance. The answer sets forth that Gibson paid Mrs. Fogarty for the waiver on the eve of the second bout with Dempsey and the eve of the Tunney-Henney fight, and intimates this was done for fear that Tunney would lose prestige and that this would result in lowering box office receipts. In the prayer for relief, Cummings asks for Tunney: "That the plaintiff be permanently restrained from prosecuting the action on file in these courts, that she be restrained from bringing any future action in any state upon any alleged damage claimed to be owing her prior to July 24, 1923, that the court declare the release she signed as a perpetual bar against future action, that she and her agents be enjoined from prosecuting, harassing or communicating with or annoying Tunney by any means or manner and that the woman, by a court order, be compelled to abide by her agreement for which Tunney has already paid more than $35,000." Col. Lewis L. Field, New Haven attorney for Mrs. Fogarty said "in general we deny all the allegations, but I cannot speak for Mrs. Fogarty until I have conferred with her. She is still in hiding and I cannot reveal her whereabouts."

DRY CRUSADER IN IOWA CONTINUES WAR ON MALT

Des Moines, Iowa (AP)—Determined to push the test case against near beer in Iowa, John B. Hammond dry crusader, has announced he will take steps to have search warrants issued for two carloads of the beverage being shipped to Boone, 35 miles north of here. Press dispatches from Sheboygan, Wis., indicated that two carloads would arrive in Boone Monday. Hammond said if he found out the time of arrival he would be on hand with a search warrant. The move grows out of a similar action by Hammond Saturday when he instructed the seizure of 20 carloads of near beer shipped from Manitowish, Wis. Mr. Hammond contends that the Iowa dry law is being violated by the sale, delivery, transportation or possession of malt liquor.

THOUSANDS POUR IN FOR KIWANIS MEET

Religious Musicals at Auditorium Is Prelude to Convention Opening

Milwaukee (AP)—While registrations have already exceeded the 3,000 mark, Kiwanians from all sections of the country continued to arrive today for the opening of the thirteenth annual Kiwanis international convention in the Milwaukee Auditorium. Delegates are arriving by train, airplane and boat, prepared to take their places for the four day program. Streets are flag-bedecked, and business places are appropriately decorated. As a prelude to the official opening of the convention at 10 o'clock a. m. today, when a religious musical was held in the Auditorium Sunday night, with O. Samuel Cummings, president from Dallas, Texas, presiding. Dr. Preston Bradley, pastor of the People's church, Chicago, was the principal speaker. Unification of mankind in both religion and business was the point stressed by Dr. Bradley in his address on "The Business of Religion and the Religion of Business." A new day in the American industry has arrived and the great leaders now see that the unification of man is just as important as his qualifications for the business, Dr. Bradley said. "Faith is the greatest word in the English dictionary," he said. "To bring about the ultimate eternal righteousness, we must have faith in ourselves, during office hours, in our dreams, in humanity and in God." The chief musical part of the program was by the Park Region Lutheran College choir of Fergus Falls, Minn. The invocation was given by the Rev. William M. Magee, S. J., president of Marquette university. Others who took part were Rabbi Samuel Hirschberg, of the Temple Emanuel A. I. church, Milwaukee, and the Rev. Paul Emanuel Winger, pastor of the Grace Evangelical church, Milwaukee.

Snook Tells Court He Is Not Guilty

Enters Court Chained to Another Alleged Slayer—Trial on July 22

Columbus, Ohio (AP)—Dr. James H. Snook, dismissed university professor and confessed slayer of Theora Hix, student at the university, pleaded not guilty to a first degree murder indictment when arraigned this morning in criminal court. On the request of County Prosecutor John J. Chester, Jr., Judge Albert C. DuCanon, set July 22 as the date for trial. The early date was fixed over the opposition of E. O. Tacketts, one of Snook's attorneys, who said the defense would not have time to prepare its case. Dr. Snook entered his plea of not guilty himself. Speaking in a clear and calm voice, he answered "not guilty." He was brought before the judge handcuffed to another man under indictment for first degree murder, Albert C. Gunning, Columbus, alleged wife slayer. This was the first time in the history of Franklino criminal procedure that two men handcuffed to each other were brought before a judge to plead. Gunning also pleaded not guilty. The use of narcotics at the veterinary school of Ohio State was under the investigation of federal officers, upon the admission of Dr. Snook, that Miss Hix, had begged frequently for narcotics while in his employment. William Ford, narcotic agent, said he had learned that the department's allotment was kept in a desk, and that no report of the actual use to which the supply was put had been made. Each withdrawal was for "experimental purposes," he said. Dr. Snook declared in statements after he signed a confession to the slaying that the girl had asked many times for narcotics, but denied that she was an addict or that he had granted her requests.

1,556 DEGREES ARE AWARDED BY BADGER U.

Dr. Frank Advises Graduates to Join Ranks of "New Liberalism"

Madison—(AP)—With a parting word from President Glenn Frank to join the ranks of the "new liberalism" to its 1,556 graduates, the University of Wisconsin celebrated its 76th commencement under gray skies in Randall stadium today.

Dr. Frank, in his final message to the class of 1929, told it that it must be "deeply interested in the development of a new education that shall inspire the spirit of man, and follow this spirit."

He said the old liberalism has reached its end, and pleaded for a scientific spirit in all of life's dealings.

Governor Kohler, in a message from the commonwealth, told the class it had attained an achievement of preparation, and that the value of a university education will come in the future by demonstration of trained leadership.

The class field in the amphitheatre from both sides. After it was seated the Rev. R. W. Barstow, pastor of the First Congregational church, Madison, pronounced the invocation.

After the messages from the governor and the university president, bachelor degrees were presented to 1,181 students. Master, doctor of medicine and doctor of philosophy degrees were then presented in order. Six honorary degrees were conferred.

ZONA GALE HONORED
The honor degree of doctor of letters was conferred on Mrs. Zona Bress, Portage, author, Ole Edvard Roivas, Northfield, Minn., author, and Carl von Mar, Munich, Germany, artist. The award of doctor of laws was made to Dr. Walter C. Murphy, president of the University of Saskatchewan, Saskatoon, Canada, and Dr. Walter Wheeler Cook, Johns Hopkins university, Baltimore, Ches.

Dr. H. H. Johnson, Chicago, electrical manufacturer, received the honorary master of arts degree.

An appeal to face the world with a scientific viewpoint and reassurance that the way of the world must be progressive peace, was made by President Frank at the baccalaureate Sunday.

The president, taking as his theme "The Mighty Meek—the Social Significance of the Scientific Spirit," told the graduating class that the future is full of promise, but that it is not to be reached by the fact that it cannot protect institutions, cannot kill ideas, cannot terrify men into agreement, and cannot destroy the moral of the determined.

Meek, on the other hand, Dr. Frank explained, is applied to "those who put their trust in the power of scientific inquiry rather than the power of dogmatic assumption as a useful thinking."

"If in your years at the university you have achieved the temper and technique of the scientist, you will forever be the uncompromising foe of all that makes for war and the untiring friend of all that makes for peace," he said.

Science is the tool of salvation, the president explained.

BUFFALO BILL HERO OF AMERICAN OPERA

Indian Melodies and Old Time Fiddlers' Tunes Included in Work

Cody, Wyo.—(AP)—Buffalo Bill and characters of the early west, are brought to life in an all-Wyoming light opera written and directed by Corinne Barrows Williams of Cody. Tribal melodies of the Shoshone Indians and tunes of old time fiddlers provide motifs of the musical score.

"Cody Big Chief"—the name the Indians gave the famous scout—is the title of the opera, which was presented early in May for the first time under the auspices of the Buffalo Bill Museum association in Cody.

Through the composers' close association with the members of the family and old friends of the scout, she was able to weave into her music story much of Colonel Cody's personality and character.

Claire Montgomery of Boston, ward of Colonel Cody, Wahkiakum, daughter of Chief Wahshakie, and Broncho Nell, a frontier character, provide the feminine interest in a story which revolves about a stirring incident of the history of Fort Washakie.

The colonel's ward was seized by Indians, infected by an insane medicine man to be a human sacrifice to the hunger god. Cody leads to an interesting denouement.

THREE INJURED WHEN TRUCK, CAR COLLIDE

Weyauvega—Fred Smith and daughter La Velle, Chicago, and William Borham, Weyauvega, were in a glass when a sedan in which they were riding collided with a delivery truck belonging to the Bratz Hardware company, Weyauvega, and driven by Anton Bratz, Monday morning on highway 10. The accident occurred when Bratz came out of a side road. It is claimed he failed to stop for an arterial sign. The Smith car was pushed across the road into a ditch and wrecked while the side and front of the delivery truck were damaged. Bratz was uninjured.

BABY HAS FIRST RIDE IN PLANE; IT CRASHES AND HE IS A BIT ANGRY

Caroline, Wis.—Milton Radtke, 2½ year old son of Carl Radtke, had his first airplane ride Sunday afternoon but it didn't last long and as baby Milton hasn't been able to figure it all out he is a bit peeved.

Milton and his father, Carl Radtke, and the latter's brother William, who flew at George A. Whiting airport in Appleton last summer, were taking off on flight Sunday afternoon at Caroline when the plane, failing to gain altitude, struck trees along side the landing field, gilded against telephone wires and then landed in the road.

The plane was badly damaged, baby Milton was shaken up, his father was slightly bruised and William Radtke, the pilot, suffered a few scratches. The engine of the plane later was salvaged and the body and the wings destroyed.

More than 25 units are expected to take part in the parade which will assemble near Lawrence Memorial chapel about 7 o'clock and get under way about 7:30. The line of march will be from the chapel west to Cherry-st and then back to the chapel on College-ave.

Chief George T. Prim of Appleton police department and a mounted squad will lead the parade. Other units will follow in this order: Seymour band; massed national colors; Fond du Lac drum corps; official escort for the national commander; Col. Paul V. McNutt and other legion officers in automobiles; fire department trucks; Little Chute band; Co. D, 127th infantry, Wisconsin National guards.

July 4 floats; massed legion colors; Menasha drum corps; war scouts; Appleton high school band; Kimberly comedy float; auxiliary to legion units; Fond du Lac band; visiting legionnaires; Clintonville truck; Clintonville "bucking broncho"; Menasha or Shawano high school band; Eagles drum corps; marching club; women's drill team; Neenah Eagles drum corps; Green Bay or Beaver Dam bands; mounted riders; Wrightstown band; Oshkosh drum corps; Appleton legionnaires and Kaukauna band.

WILL FLY HERE

Commander McNutt, who spoke at East Chippewa Sunday, will arrive at noon Monday, and is scheduled to arrive in Appleton by airplane at 4 o'clock. A banquet in honor of the national commander, Mrs. R. B. McCoy, commander of the state auxiliary, R. F. Hoehle commander of the state department of the legion, and Austin A. Petersen, state adjutant, will be held at 8 o'clock at Conway hotel. The banquet is being attended only by officers of the local post, county council officers, and district officers.

Members of Oney Johnston post of the legion who will take part in the evening's parade will assemble on the west side of N. Drew-st facing College-ave. Members of the Legion auxiliary will assemble on the west side of Park-st facing College ave and will be followed by all visiting veterans.

The chapel program is scheduled to begin at 8:15 with Col. McNutt, Mrs. McCoy, and Commander Hoehle the only speakers. They will be introduced by L. Hugo Keller, a past state commander of the legion. Following the chapel program the veterans will retire to Rainbow gardens where an informal dancing party will be held.

EXPECT TO TRACE LOST RACE IN U. S.

Believe Undiscovered People Migrated to America 12,000 Years Ago

Chicago—(AP)—America's hope-land of races may include descendants of an undiscovered ancient people who designated northern Africa for thousands of years.

This is the conclusion of Professor Fay Cooper Cole, chairman of the University of Chicago's department of anthropology, who has examined four skeletons unearthed just north of the Sahara desert. One of them was called the most complete human ever discovered.

Features of these skeletons, he found, resemble modern Europeans more than any other race, ancient or modern. Dr. Cole estimated that the history of this ancestral people dates back about 25,000 years.

In Algeria the bones were found buried beneath huge mounds of sand shells. An expedition sponsored by Beloit college and Dr. P. G. Logan, vice president of the Chicago Art Institute, was in its third year of work when the discovery was made.

Dr. Cole explained the race's relation to modern Europeans and Americans by the history that these "mound people" migrated from Africa into Europe about 12,000 years ago. Land bridges then existed at Gibraltar and Sicily. They probably destroyed the Cro-Magnon type of man then living in Europe, he said, and thus became ancestors of southern Europeans of today.

The striking likeness of the skeletons to those of modern Europeans led Professor Cole to believe that thousands of Americans, especially emigrants from the Balkans, now may want to Africa's "mound men" as ancestors.

Widow Held in Deaths

Mysterious deaths from "stomach trouble" in the family of Mrs. Hattie V. Stone aroused the suspicions of Havre de Grace, Md., authorities. Now Mrs. Stone has been formally accused of poisoning to death her son, George, 15, who died on June 4 after eating a hearty meal prepared by his mother. The mother and the boy she is charged with killing are shown at the top. Efforts are being made to link her with the deaths of four others in her family—among them her husband, Edward Stone, lower left, and another son, Edgar, lower right. Mrs. Stone was sole beneficiary of their insurance policies.

Fight Electron-Menace To Lead-Sheathed Cables

Ithaca, N. Y.—(AP)—An answer in dollar and cent values to a question often asked by the man-in-the-street, "What is the use of discovering what an electron does?" is under development at Cornell University.

Research men here are on the trail of electrons believed to be one of the mysterious agencies that cause trouble in the high-tension, lead-sheathed cables carrying electric power beneath city streets.

Expensive cables deteriorate, even occasionally to the point of complete break down.

Here is what research has divulged. Cables in use heat up, expanding the lead sheath.

When the lead sheath follows in all parts except the lead cover. Voids containing gas at low pressure are formed within the insulation, creating favorable conditions for a phenomenon called ionization, which consists in formation of electrically charged minute particles, ions and electrons. The electrons bombard the insulation in the cable until it deteriorates.

One of the principal insulating substances is mineral oil impregnated in paper. Experiments show that the electronic bombardment produces chemical changes in both oil and paper. For a remedy the Cornell men seek an oil or some other compound that will resist electric bombardment better.

A number of chemical changes are involved. To get at the problem a tube has been constructed through which a stream of electrons can be shot against various kinds of oil. Instead of using commercial oils, the experimenters separate the oil into the various chemicals composing it and shoot the electrons at the single elements believed to contain the key to discovery of better resistance.

Large manufacturing and operating companies are conducting various researches to remedy this deterioration. The work at Cornell, sponsored by the Detroit Edison company, is carried out in the department of physics and chemistry by Dr. H. A. Treiber and E. G. Linder, supervised by Prof. Vladimir Karapetoff of the department of electrical engineering.

CLAIMS BADGERS BUILD AIRPORTS TOO QUICKLY

Fond du Lac—(AP)—Small communities of the state are going ahead at too rapid a pace in building airports without definitely knowing of the future of aviation in the legislation of Senator Oscar H. Morris, Milwaukee who spoke at the fourteenth annual convention of Wisconsin Association of Commercial Organization Secretaries which opened here today.

Senator Morris discussed legislation affecting aviation and sought to show the immediate future of aviation in the state. The senator is the author of an aviation bill now pending passage in the legislature.

More than 35 delegates are expected here today and some may arrive before the closing sessions tomorrow night. This noon the delegates were the guests of the Rotary club. Four civic organizations were present. William G. Bruce, Milwaukee, discussed the Great Lakes to-the-Sea waterway project.

President Harry J. Bell, Milwaukee, will speak at the annual dinner tonight and tomorrow the delegates will conduct convention business and be entertained.

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER HURT IN COLLISION

Jane Yule, 8-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Yule, 110 Grand-ave, Oshkosh, received a scalp wound, and Mrs. A. L. Hanson, 875 E. Calumet-st, cut her head in an automobile collision at Leppia's corners about 9 o'clock Sunday morning.

The Hanson car, driven by George Hansen, Appleton, was going west on highway 10 and the Yule car, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Yule and their two children, was going north on highway 25. The Hansons, accompanied by Frank Schimmer, were on their way to Fremont and the Yules were on their way to spend the day at the George Deming cottage at New London.

URGES KIWANIS TO PUSH ACTIVITIES IN SMALLER TOWNS

Organization Not Ready to Extend into More Foreign Fields, Chief Says

BY DONALD L. BRENNAN
ASSOCIATED STAFF WRITER
Milwaukee—(AP)—Convinced the time has not arrived for the establishment of Kiwanis clubs in foreign nations other than Canada, O. Samuel Cummings, president of Kiwanis International, urged in his message to the thirteenth annual convention here today that organization in small communities be pushed instead.

The reduction of the minimum number of members required to form a chapter makes this more possible, he said, for 25, instead of 35, may now band together under the ideals of Kiwanis.

Kiwanis, said Mr. Cummings, is in a competitive field. In its extension program, quality of members must be considered, but quantity of quality is desired.

The Kiwanis organization is at its best in the small community in which the effects of its ideals and service are immediately felt," he declared.

Taking up the matter of world extension, Mr. Cummings said the extension board has investigated problems attendant thereto and believes that until a proper solution of those problems is found, the organization should content itself with the aggressive promotion of extension in the two countries in which it now operates, the United States, and Canada.

SCOPE OF ACTIVITIES
During the past year 95 per cent of the Kiwanis clubs engaged in welfare work for underprivileged children, the international organization expending $250,000 in carrying on its work. Seventy-seven per cent of the clubs worked on the farmer-city man objective, which is to bring the rural and urban worker to a closer understanding.

The president also summed up other activities of the club, saying that a weeding out process of deadwood in the membership begun the first of the year had materially decreased the net increase. He predicted a gain during the next six months which will boost the total at least 5,000. District conventions of last fall showed marked improvement. District officers visited 1,080 clubs during the year, 211 more than the 12 months preceding.

Mr. Cummings expressed the opinion that the clubs' method of selecting convention cities should be promptly changed. He proposes changing the constitution so that naming of the convention sites would be entirely in the hands of the international board of trustees.

A plea for more adequate hospitalization for World War veterans was made by Col. Paul V. McNutt, Bloomington, Ind., commander of the American legion and dean of the University of Indiana Law school, in extending greetings of the legion to the convention.

OTHER SPEAKERS
Following the invocation by the Rev. L. W. Stetzel, of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of Resurrection here, addresses of welcome were given by Mayor Daniel W. Ryan, Milwaukee; George L. Waestgen, president of the Milwaukee Civic alliance; Dr. E. LeRoy Dakin, president of the Milwaukee Kiwanis club; William C. Alexander, New York City, chairman of the program committee, responded.

Another speaker of the morning's program was R. E. Pattison Kline, a public speaking instructor of Chicago, who discussed the subject "What do You Think When You Think."

Mr. Pattison pointed out five steps in constructive thinking as follows: "The will to know the truth; to base conclusions on an adequate number of facts; to learn to think clearly; to have the power of imagination; to obey the universal law."

KILLS SELF BECAUSE MATE DESERTED HER

Chicago—(AP)—During the year since her husband left her, Mrs. Florence Lehman Archer often thought to her sister, Mrs. John Zochelmu, that she would kill herself were it not for the grief it would cause her father.

Yesterday the father, George Lehman, was motoring in the country. When he got to the Zochelmu home last night, they found Mrs. Archer dead from gas fumes that had entered the kitchen. She was bound hand and foot to the gas range.

"Of course she did it herself," the sister said, "but let us pretend to my father that burglars killed her. That is the way she wanted it to be."

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Walther and daughter, Rosemary, have returned from a ten days' trip through southern Illinois.

Mr. and Mrs. John P. H. Dieckrich and daughter left for South Milwaukee Monday morning to attend the wedding of Mrs. Dieckrich's sister Tuesday.

Mrs. E. G. Madisen has returned to her home at Oshkosh after spending Sunday at the E. L. Madisen home here.

Mrs. Charles Luedke and daughter, Marie, of Oshkosh spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Ehke, 424 W. Spring-st. They plan to leave this week on a two month trip to Long Beach, Calif.

APPLETON PEOPLE AT RAILROAD OUTING

About 35 employees from Appleton attended the Chicago and Northwestern Employees' picnic at Escanaba, Mich., Sunday. Six hundred and fifty employees attended the annual outing. The main feature was a baseball game between the Lakeshore division baseball team and the Escanaba division. The northern players emerged victorious. The picnic was under the direction of the railroad athletic association.

Mother Honor Graduate

The women who say "My dear, I never have time for anything," should know Mrs. Eleanor Struck of Milwaukee, Wis. She has three children and a husband to look after, but she found time to attend college and complete a four-year course in three years. She was one of six honor graduates. She is shown here, being assisted by her children in donning cap and gown. Louis holding the mirror, while Norman and Harold, extreme right, look on with beaming eyes.

Brazilian Women Cast Away Old Restraints

Rio de Janeiro—(AP)—Women in the commercial cities of Brazil have escaped completely from their cloistered past. There are no more barred windows in Brazil suggestive of Portugal or Spain and no swains chant their love songs from the street.

Brazil is the New World. Its women do not wear black gowns and black veils, and there are no women with lace shawls over their heads.

The ancestors of Brazilian women from the Mediterranean countries and central Europe may have clung to European customs when they first came to South America. But, this generation has shaken off all Old World trammes and seized the freedom of a new era.

Bobbed hair, short skirts, snake-skin slippers and small felt hats—in spite of the brilliant sun—are seen everywhere. Smart girls drive their own sport cars. Women ride cross saddle on the bridge paths along the beautiful beaches.

There is mixed bathing everywhere along Rio's miles of ocean front, and the costumes are just the same as one sees at the Lido or Atlantic City.

Women may go through the streets of Brazilian cities unaccompanied day or night without being stared at by men after the fashion of Madrid and many other cities in Southern Europe.

In shops and offices there are women employees everywhere. They are in the banks, export houses and travel agencies.

Brazilian women clearly do not live in the past. They are banting and dieting just as women are in the United States, and their makeup suggests a Fifth Avenue beauty parlor.

Parisian imitation diamonds are just as numerous in Sao Paulo and Rio de Janeiro as they are in Manhattan. The young men of Santos take their sweaters to the movies without an chaparones. Most of the films are Hollywood productions.

Beggars are not encountered. Loafers are scarce. Men and women alike have caught the spirit of modern trade which has invaded Brazil. Everyone steps with a livelier pace than is general in many parts of Latin America. One must keep out of the way of motor cars and motorbuses.

CRUISERS HUNT FOR AIRPLANE WRECKAGE

supposed flare for the Spainsards plane, the Jupiter, to reach Halifax or New York, it was presumed that if the plane had made such an attempt, it was down in the western Atlantic or in an isolated spot in the east Atlantic seaboard.

The Radio Marine corporation picked up a message from the freighter Buffalo bridge saying that 5:40 a. m. G. M. T. Sunday (12:40 a. m. e. s. t.) in latitude 40.04 north, longitude 50.57 west, it had observed "a flare of light bearing six degrees true at an altitude of ten degrees."

The radiogram added that the object was apparently an airplane. Prior to Major Franco's departure from Alcazar, the German, Cartagena, Spain, he was purported to have told a writer for Diario La Verdad of Madrid, Spain, that he had a surprise for everybody and that if all went well he would be in New York by 1 o'clock Sunday morning.

He intimated to the friend that it was for this reason he was leaving his slower plane, the Numancia behind and taking the faster Dornier Wühl, seaplane, with its claimed speed of 800 kilometers, or 185 miles an hour. The Murcia paper said he carried a load of gasoline considerably in excess of what would have been required to reach the Azores.

Madrid dispatches last night discounted the possibility because of belief that the plane did not carry sufficient fuel for the attempt. The veil of mystery which the four aviators threw about their planes left even government officials more or less in the dark as to their intentions.

ONE FOOT FOREST FOUND

What is believed to be the most remarkable forest in the world has been found on the west coast of Africa. Although the trunks of the trees are as much as four feet in diameter, they attain the height of only one foot. No tree bears more than two leaves, which attain a length of six feet and breadth of two feet. The forest covers a tableland six miles in width.

FIREWORKS POP IN EQUITY EXCHANGE; DAMAGE IS SLIGHT

The Outagamie Equity Exchange, 320 N. Division-st, was the scene of a premature Fourth of July celebration about 8:15 Saturday night when a stock of firecrackers caught fire and started to explode.

The exchange was fairly well crowded with customers, who ran out of the building with hands over their ears.

Charles Schroeder, the proprietor, was able to carry part of the stock of fireworks outside before it became ignited. He then turned chemicals onto the flames and finally put them out.

Damage, Mr. Schroeder estimated, will total about $125. Besides the loss of most of the fireworks, the ceiling was slightly damaged.

The cause of the "celebration" is not known. Firemen were inclined to think that somebody accidentally dropped a lighted cigarette into the fireworks.

HOOVER ALSO TRIES HAND AT ECONOMY

Wants to Keep Expenses Down to Cal's Figures but Has Tough Job

Washington—(AP)—President Hoover is hopeful of keeping expenditures within the figures of the last year of the Coolidge administration.

Instructions in line with the chief executive's wish today were in the hands of all department and independent bureau heads and their attention had been called to the none too easy task before them. The order was signed by R. O. Kloeber, acting budget head pending the taking over of office of J. C. Roop, recently selected to succeed General Lord.

Mr. Hoover's views were disclosed to all agencies of the government were beginning to frame recommendations for the budget for the fiscal year 1930-31. The budget for the next fiscal year, that of 1929-30, beginning July 1, was drafted by the Coolidge regime last summer and approved by congress prior to March 4.

The total budget, exclusive of postal receipts and expenditures, for the next fiscal year is $3,736,000,000 and President Hoover is anxious for his administration to keep within this amount.

The task to be placed upon Mr. Hoover will call for the solution of many problems not confronting his predecessor. Since the last budget congress has been active in authorizing appropriations and the initial outlay on many projects must be met in the early days of Hoover administration.

These include funds to initiate the $274,000,000 cruiser building program; the first appropriation under the $325,000,000 Mississippi River Flood Control act; the $150,000,000 appropriation to start the half billion dollar revolving fund provided for under the new farm relief act; and money to begin work on the gigantic Boulder Canyon dam project in the southwest.

THINK MARRIAGE LENGTHENS LIFE

German Vital Statistics Records Prove Married People Live Longer

Berlin—(AP)—Marriage tends to prolong life, the "weaker sex" lives longer than the "stronger," and the average life has since 1871 been lengthened by 20 years, are the conclusions drawn by the most recent official German vital records and mortality statistics.

In 1871, these records show, the average feminine life in Germany was 38.5 years, and the masculine average was 36 years. For the year 1924 it was 58.5 years for the female and 56.5 years for the male. The average baby could look forward to 58.5 years of life, and her brother to 56 years.

For the boy or girl who grew up safely as far as 20 years of age, the prospects were still better. A young man of twenty in 1871 could only count on reaching the age of 58; but his grandson, a young man of twenty in 1927, could safely look forward to 66 or 67 years.

The figures are indisputably an average of 5 years more for married folk, both men and women. Whether this fact be regarded as proof that people become stronger through marriage, or again, as an indication that only the strong dare to marry, must remain a matter of taste or prejudice. The official statistics maintain strict silence on the point.

Mrs. Slaback protested her innocence, declaring she had been talking on the telephone and had not heard the shots.

Brotherhood and Internationalism will be the theme of the Tuesday meeting, with Mr. Cartwright as the speaker. Wednesday is scheduled as "books and literature day," and Dr. Daniel Brummitt of Chicago will give the afternoon address.

Mr. Cartwright, Dr. E. D. Kohlsted of Philadelphia and Prof. O. W. Neal of Stevens Point State Teachers college are on the program for Thursday women's missionary day. A pageant will be presented by the Epworth League.

2 STABBED AT MEXICAN FIESTA IN MILWAUKEE

Milwaukee. —(P)—A Mexican fiesta at the home of David Valdez here Sunday culminated in a stabbing affray that sent two men to Emergency hospital and eight others to jail. Valdez said that the trouble began when a guest, who had become abusive, was asked to leave and, instead, began to beat his host, the others joining in the combat.

FEDERAL ENGINEERS TO HOLD PUBLIC HEARINGS

Col. J. J. Kingman, Milwaukee, district government engineer, and A. F. Everett, Appleton, local government engineer, left Monday afternoon for Sturgeon Bay and Kewaunee where Col. Kingman will conduct public hearings Tuesday on bridges to be constructed by the state on Highways 17 and 73. Mr. Everett will assist Col. Kingman.

The old toll bridge on Highways 17 and 73 at Sturgeon Bay will be replaced by a new state bridge, and the old bridge on Highway 17 at Kewaunee is to be razed to make way for a new span, according to Mr. Everett.

BABY RIDES ON RUNNING BOARD

Three-year-old Edward Bidwell recently enjoyed a three-mile ride on the running board of his father's automobile. The boy crawled on to the vehicle unnoticed when his father started from their home at Wisbech, England. While the father was bowling along at 30 miles an hour a passing motorist called his attention to the child. "Mummys Daddy does drive fast. It was lovely," was Bernard's comment.

PLAN GAS COMPRESSOR STATION FOR MILLION

It will cost $1,000,000 and will be used in connection with the 100-mile gas line from the Monroe field to Shreveport.

HAT MUST CONFORM TO WEARER'S FACE

Otherwise It Will Not Fit Despite Fact That Size May Be Right

BY AILEEN LAMONT
(Copyright, 1929, by Cons. Press)

New York—Some women are so misguided as to think that a hat fits them because it is the right head size. Nothing could be further from the truth. The modern big hat must have its brim and the angle at which it is worn adopted absolutely to the profile and features of the wearer not to her head size. The tilt and width of the brim can make the nose long or short, give it the saucy up-tilt or turn down. The chin and the line of the jaw are thrown into relief by the back brim, which should take the same curve. The colors do much to achieve these effects.

One of the new Parisian timepieces worn by fashionable women which has just been seen here is becoming known as the appointment watch. Noon is marked by a knife and fork rather than by the numeral 12. A curiously head marks 3 p. m., as the time for a visit to hairdresser. A cocktail glass replaces the figure 5 and a fan is substituted for 8 p. m.

Even handbags must look cool during the heated season. Nothing can be worse than to see a damp faced woman extract a soggy powder puff from a heavy, stiff bag and mop her perspiring countenance. For that reason, the straw and line bags are achieving a decided popularity. Most of the straw bags have a zipper fastening and are of the loosely woven type. Some of the Indian basket weaver patterns are very attractive, however, in the finer straws. The inner purses match exactly.

Has The Finest Health In Years

Many of His Friends Began Taking Sargol After Seeing Good It Did Him

The best days work I ever did was when I bought my first bottle of Sargol. I'm a well, strong man again for the first time in ten years. "Stomach trouble got the best of me several years ago and I've been in failing health ever since. Indigestion got so bad, I couldn't eat hardly anything. Food soured in my stomach and for hours after eating, a hot, sour liquid and bits of food would rise up in my mouth. I had a burning sensation in my throat, chest and stomach. I lost my appetite entirely. I had severe headaches and was nervous nearly all the time. I was so restless that many nights I didn't sleep a wink. I was so badly constipated I had to take some strong laxative every night. I kept getting weaker until I was just about ready to give up. And then I began to read about the many Milwaukee people who were getting such wonderful results from Sargol. I decided it must be good and I started taking it right away. "Sargol has completely cleared up all my troubles. It seems almost impossible that any one medicine could bring about such a wonderful change. I eat three big meals every day and everything agrees with me. I'm never worried with gas, bloating or that burning sensation in my throat and chest. My headaches have disappeared entirely. My nerves are in fine shape and I sleep like a log every night. Five bottles of Sargol have entirely relieved me of the troubles that have worried me all these years. I look so much better since taking this wonderful medicine that lots of my friends have started the treatment. "After 10 years of constipation, I have been entirely relieved by Sargol Soft Mass Pills. I think everybody should take them along with the Sargol liquid." The above statement was made by Joseph Bogdanski, 1395 Bremen St., Milwaukee. Mr. Bogdanski is employed by J. Laskin & Sons, Furriers. He is highly esteemed by all who know him. Sargol may be obtained in Appleton from Volgt's Drug Store and in Kaukauna from H. G. Brauer.

GOVERNMENT BORROWING
The British economic mission to Australia, appointed by the British government at the request of the Australian authorities, has been speaking plainly to the Commonwealth.
Australia, it seems, has been borrowing too confidently, mortgaging too heavily the prosperity upon which it can reckon for the future. Enormous expenditures for railroad extensions and other public improvements have not proved self-supporting, and undertakings begun under pressure from local interests have imposed a general community burden which affects seriously both living and production costs.
Bluntly, the British mission suggests that the various Australian states, and the Commonwealth also, would do well to restrict the sphere of their activities, and to open the field more widely to private enterprise.
The fact that the report makes clear that the Commonwealth's borrowings are still well within its actual and potential resources will be comforting to the creditors who are, of course, entitled to protection. A good many Americans, tax payers instead of bond owners, will wish that a similar mission might conduct a similar inquiry here. An authoritative outside opinion on municipal, state and county expenditures in this country might save us all a lot of money.

ELECTORAL INDIFFERENCE
Eighty per cent of the eligible voters in Great Britain voted in the recent general election. Last November, after a campaign of almost unprecedented feeling and interest, 89 per cent of this nation's registered voters went to the polls. However, they were only 65 per cent of the potential voters—meaning all native-born and naturalized citizens over 21. Apparently our British brothers and sisters have a more highly developed voting habit than we have.
The number of British voters is nearly one-half the total population of Great Britain. In the election which made Hindenburg Germany's president, nearly one-half of the total population voted. The voters in our own presidential election last fall numbered about a third of our total population. Our large alien population and the disfranchised negroes of the South account for some of this electoral indifference, though not all. To many American citizens voting is a nuisance rather than either a privilege or a civic duty.

BORDER RESPONSIBILITY
President Hoover appeals to citizens to help in the war against rum runners along the Canadian border. He says: "I hope that the communities along the border will do their best to help the treasury department end the systematic war that is being carried on by international criminals against the laws of the United States. It is these activities that are at the root of all our difficulties."
An awakened public conscience is essential to effective enforcement. Border communities, however, cannot be expected to co-operate wholeheartedly in the suppression of the liquor traffic when their citizens believe that innocent persons have been killed by impetuous officers of the law. The government undoubtedly will do everything possible to eliminate indiscriminate shooting from border enforcement.
On the other hand, honest citizens should realize that persons who refuse to co-operate with officials are behaving suspiciously. They endanger their own right to immunity from interference. If there are as much feeling proportionately against rum-running as there is against mistaken enforcement methods, there would probably be less of both these evils.

MACHINES AND MEN
The Farm Bureau federation says there are 300,000 men being replaced every year on the farms by mechanical energy. There are 400,000 crowded out of other industries for the same reason. This makes a displacement of 700,000 workers a year by machinery.
Thus it is necessary, as a part of the economic process, to find new jobs every year for about three-quarters of a million workmen, in addition to the natural increase of labor coming from growing population. This means new lines of business, new kinds of work. It means producing new things and finding consumers for them.
The process, on the whole, seems to be working pretty well. Men thrown out of their jobs by machines usually land on their feet. There are personal hardships and tragedies, but the economic readjustment is soon made in a period of great industrial activity like this. And the workers themselves benefit in the long run, because the rapid increase of production made possible by the machines provides a bigger share of goods for them, along with the rest of society. But the human problem is a delicate one, calling for industrial statesmanship of a high order.

PATRIOTISM
There are many different emotions and ideas bearing the common name of "patriotism." Here is what patriotism means to Harry Emerson Fosdick: "No other nation can mean to us what our nation means. Here are the roots of our heritage, and here our central loyalties belong. But, just because we feel so deeply about our own land, we understand how other people feel about their lands, and, using our patriotism to interpret theirs, we grow, not in bitterness but in understanding and sympathy. So all fine internationalism must be rooted back in the noble significance of nationalism."
Do the 100-per-centers endorse this sort of patriotism? It is certainly not the patriotism of war-time, which has very little understanding of how other peoples feel. It seems to be a very good patriotism for peace-time, however. If it were the true patriotism of this and many other countries, perhaps it would insure more peace and less war. Anyhow, it makes a good thought upon which to meditate occasionally between now and the Fourth of July.

TEMPERATE VACATIONS
Health Commissioner Wynne of New York suggests 10 don'ts for vacationers.
Do not choose a place where you are judged by the clothes you wear.
Do not make the children get all dressed up.
Do not permit the children to do more than is good for them.
Do not drink from any spring or brook unless its purity is known.
Do not indulge in heavy meals.
Do not attempt long walks during the heat of the day.
Do not attempt vigorous exercise when the sun is high.
Do not stop at every roadside stand for "little meals."
Do not drink any raw milk, unless it is certified.
Do not start away without first having a physical examination.
That is a good start toward a fool-proof vacation. The commissioner has omitted some things he might have urged in behalf of safe and sane swimming and boating—pastimes which are wholesome and refreshing under the right conditions, but disastrous under the wrong ones. Vacations are wonderful periods, and it is a fine thing that they are becoming increasingly popular in this country. Yet it is just as true of vacation activities as of routine work and play, that intemperance is harmful. It is possible to have too much of a good thing.

CREATION
Sir Esme Howard, British ambassador at Washington, laments that he has never learned any handicraft, and so has missed the "creative happiness" that comes from such work. He hopes, however, to remedy this defect when he retires from his public career next year. He wants to bind books.
"Even if bookbinding is but a small matter," he says. "I console myself by saying that most men must be content to do small things with a great heart. To have bound one book really well is to have accomplished something worth doing, because we have added in accordance with our capacity, to the stock of beautiful things in the world."
The world needs beautiful things. Still more, it needs people "doing small things with a great heart." That means usefulness and happiness.

The most expensive animal to keep in captivity is the walrus. Its food bill is $2,000 a year—a sum which would supply three elephants with food during the same period.
Britons drink less milk than any other nation. Britain imports 63,000,000 gallons of milk.

Seen And Heard In New York
BY RICHARD MASSOCK
New York—It's an easy matter these days for the public to meet the widow of the great Caruso. They need only call at her sound-recording studio on one of the four days she passes there each week.
Mrs. Dorothy Benjamin Caruso, in person, receives those who come to preserve their words in wavy lines on aluminum disks that can be carried home immediately after they're made. She, the daughter of society, she's customers into the studio where her brother, Romeyn Benjamin, directs the actual recording.
VOICE CANNING
Mrs. Caruso's business is the making of personal phonograph records on metal in as short a time as it takes to snap a self-portrait at one of the numerous automatic-camera shops around town.
Some of her customers come to can their piano-playing or their singing of operatic arias. Others, however, are interested in the likeness in bronze stands in the reception hall, have vocal letters made for mailing to the families left-back home.
For many, the records are merely a novelty. But others find them useful. Teachers of voice culture bring pupils to the studio to get used to their diction. For the voice, that comes back to them is the one their audiences, and not themselves, hear. There's a difference, as this reporter learned when he got back a bit of enunciation that made him blush with shame.
Cole Porter is one who puts the records to practical use. He sings into the metal the songs he has "in his head" for a new musical comedy and forwards them to his manuscript writer for transcribing on paper.
FAD OF ALL CLASSES
Italians are frequent visitors to the studio, attracted no doubt by the name of their most illustrious tenor. They play accordions and mouth organs and make metallic missives for the folk back home in Sicily. One little Gull in Naples, for instance, is going to get a surprise. His father is sending him an indestructible warning of a licking he's to get for some reported naughtiness when the family is reunited.
The socially prominent also are making personal records, and Herman Oelrichs has even ordered a complete recording instrument for his home. But as yet no host has brought his guests to the studio for a party record, although that service is available. For the present they are content with such amusement as little Willie's electrolytic wrestling with "The Wreck of the Hesperus" or Uncle Oscar's recital of "Gunga Din" affords.

COMES FROM TEXAS
The recording is made direct on the metal disk by means of a microphone and a device that looks like a large cabinet phonograph. The method is similar to the customary recording on wax and was developed, Mrs. Caruso said, by a couple of Texans, Frederick Sanborn and H. L. Wadsworth.
So far as she knows, the first metal records were made during the war, were of gold and contained a 40-word patriotic message from General Pershing. There were only two copies, she said. One was given to President Wilson and she has the other.

MORGAN'S RAID
On June 24, 1863, Brig.-Gen. John Hunt Morgan began his spectacular raid into Indiana and Ohio.
Morgan was ordered to attempt to draw Union troops from Tennessee by an expedition into Kentucky. He exceeded his orders and, breaking through the Union line in Kentucky, he marched north and northwest to the Ohio river and crossed to the Indiana side.
He had with him about 3,000 cavalry or mounted infantry and four field pieces of artillery. He swept around Cincinnati, closely pursued by Generals Hobson and Shackelford and opposed everywhere by the militia.
A sudden rise in the Ohio river allowed gunboats to reach Buffington Island and prevented him from recrossing the river. Here about 700 of his men were taken prisoners, two companies succeeded in crossing the river and he, with the remainder, set out toward the Pennsylvania border to join Lee.
After an exciting chase he was captured at a place three miles south of New Lisbon, O., and was afterward confined in the Ohio State Prison at Columbus. November 27 of that year he escaped, with a few companions, and reached the Confederate lines in safety.

Personal Health Talks

A CHANCE TO JOIN THE BREAD AND MILK CLUB
Doctors 10 or 20 years ago left off preaching that all kinds of illness and poor health arose from over eating, but the near doctors and the queer doctors, mail order birds and shortcut healers are still going strong on this theme. The public seems to like it just as the public likes what Barnum used to provide. For you see we still have with us a tolerable amount of stomach trouble, indigestion, dyspepsia, biliousness, liver complaint, autointoxication, flatulency, acidosis, neuritis, pyrosis, avitaminosis or whatsover have you, and now and again somebody tires of "pills and potions" and strolls down the pike amongst the freak shows for a change.
Some folks eat for strength, some eat for sociability, and some from force of example and because it is eating time.
Most people harbor a fond fancy that one must eat heartily in order to maintain health and efficiency for you know that's the way healthy young animals do eat. Few laymen dwell long on the picture of the poor geek on the verge of a stroke of paralysis (apoplexy) or heart failure or uremic coma displaying a trencherman's appetite and gorging an enormous meal, the while he proclaims how he has never been better than he is now.
What chance has the true picture of health in competition with the make-up that is indispensable on the cover of the clapper magazine? Health is not pink, rose or ruddy nor yet tangerine; compared with these gaudy hues health is pale, pale as youth, not gashy nor sickly nor delicate but natural skin tint, flesh color. If you're very dumb and fail to appreciate just what I mean, regard any athlete, man or woman, who is ready for the race. The athlete's blood has more important things to do than flush the skin. That cheap caricature on the periodical cover (fore and aft) represents rather the abnormal, pampered, parasitic youth whose muscles vital organs and brain require only a minimum of blood. Carry the caricature of greater extremes and you produce a picture of the premenstrual stage of Bright's disease, the incipient stage of arteriosclerosis, the primary stage of heart muscle failure—a picture of the beginning of cardiovascular degeneration and the end of that kind of career.
The Bread and Milk club welcomes members who are just collecting minor ailments, preparing to have something major the matter, healthy folk with merely functional disturbances which, unchecked, will eventually grow into organic disease.
Members take no other food than bread and milk each Monday, beginning as early in the morning as they wish, with a glass of milk, hot or cold or buttermilk, or skim milk or sour milk, or fermented or cultured milk if preferred, and a 2 by 4 by 1/2 inch slice of bread or toast, or a plain or graham cracker. The milk should be sipped slowly. The cracker or bread should be munched leisurely. This meal may be repeated at three hour intervals throughout the day. Each such meal yields approximately 200 calories.
Temperance for a day gives the sinner a fine sense of righteousness, and his metabolism a chance to catch up.
If you're sick keep out. If you're just scared, come on in. The B. & M. is no blooming luncheon club. I can tell you. If you do come in you had better not smoke on Blue Monday but suit yourself about that.
QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
The Exercises
Can nearsightedness or farsightedness be cured by ocular calisthenics? The (mail order) hunch is a synthesis of dynamic passive ocular calisthenics which will cure nearsightedness and other eye defects, according to the booklet . . . (S. F.)
Answer—The eye exercise game is an old mail order trick. Looking at things, near and far, is the best exercise for the eyes, if that's what the eyes need. Better be guided by the advice of your eye physician about wearing glasses or exercising your eyes. The fancy words in the description you quote amount to just so much hooey.
Popular Way of Wading Out?
What causes so called stroke? It seems to be a popular way of dying these days, even among farmers. Has formally high living anything to do with it? (Miss M. R. C.)
Answer—The usual cause of a stroke of paralysis is apoplexy—cerebral hemorrhage. A small artery in the base of the brain breaks and a hemorrhage occurs into the brain tissue. The artery is diseased, usually in a general hardening of the arteries. This is caused by syphilis, alcoholism, tobaccoism, lead poisoning, and sometimes disease as a sequel of such infectious diseases as typhoid fever or pneumonia. It is questionable whether neglected focus infections can cause arteriosclerosis or hardening of the arteries. It is also questionable whether overeating and lack of exercise can cause it. I thought this is likely a contributing factor in many cases. There is no evidence that hard work alone can cause hardening of the arteries.

Marked
But I am afraid, for I hear so many stories, and my own mother was very superstitious and always told us girls that any names we called each other in anger would be visited on our children. I know this sounds foolish, but these things prey on my mind and I am scared . . . (Mrs. T. K. E.)
Answer—There is no ground for the superstitious belief in "marking." Mothers may take a hint from your case and have a care lest they instill morbid ideas in young heads.
A Book on Diabetes
I am 57. I have diabetes. Where can I get best information? (Mrs. S. S.)
Answer—Dr. Duffie's "A Book for Us Diabetics," published by A. Miles, South Lancaster, Mass., at $1.00. (Copyright John F. Dille Co.)

FLASHES FROM HOLLYWOOD
BY ROBBIN COONS
Hollywood—Lenore Ulric, small, vital, all a quiver, it seems, with nervous energy and eagerness to launch forth into her first talkie, has come to Hollywood in style befitting a much heralded star of the stage.
She has taken up her abode in the Beverly Hills residence lately vacated by Mary Lewis, operatic star.
Besides the brown mop of the long bob which shields her dark brown eyes and waves like a wild aura about her head, the delectable Lenore has brought with her a small retinue of servants and a car from the east. She is not "putting on style" to impress the natives, most of whom are old friends of hers. Lenore just is that way.
"I love permanent things," she says. "I get accustomed to one maid, to one chauffeur, to one car, to one cook—and oh, I know that is frightfully unromantic, but this cook does prepare the most delicious sauerkraut!"
OFF IN A HURRY
Miss Ulric's play, "Mima," scarcely had closed in New York before the star was en route west. And in something of the same spirit with which she undertook the role of this fantastic siren in the Belasco spectacle, she approaches her first talkie, "Mima" was gorgeous fantasy, in no way resembling her "Kiki" or "Lulu Belle." But she reasoned then as she does now:
"If I do the same sort of thing over and over, I can never learn anything new."
And she is eager to learn about talkies.

BEAUTY TEAM
If not quite a "s sextet of sex appeal," as no doubt the billboards would love to proclaim, at least a quintet of exotic beauty has been assembled to intrigue Frank Fay, stage comedian, in his romantic essays in "Under a Texas Moon," another all-color-talkie.
Mona Maris, Raquel Torres and Armina are the genuine Latinas of the five, while Betty Boyd and Myrna Loy must look exotic in spite of American birth.
Color photography by the way, "is causing strange phenomena." Fay has had to dye his hair black for his Latin role in this picture, and doubtless other actors and actresses in future will have to follow suit.
Then, too, the same cameras may solve a problem which long has irked many fans. Colleen Moore constantly receives inquiries such as: "Is it true you have one brown eye and one blue?"
Well, Colleen's new picture, "Footlights and Fools," is a color sequence, and Colleen is in it—very much. The fans may see for themselves—she really has!

YOU TOO MAY HAVE THIS MILLION DOLLAR MOTOR OIL

EACH year Cities Service spends over one million dollars in research and experimentation to improve their products and service. In this case they worked with a selfish end in mind — that was to get a motor oil to stand the hard usage their $800,000,000 Public Utilities Division would give it. They were interested in cutting their own costs and repair bills. Their huge fleets of motor trucks and busses, their high speed autos, their machines and equipment must have the best possible lubricant to withstand constant abuse. Then too, modern high compression motors demanded a new oil. The searing heat and high speed these motors developed broke down ordinary oils. The great research department of the Oil Division of Cities Service bent its energies toward developing a lubricant to fill this need.

The result of this effort was Cities Service Motor Oils. These oils have proven a success for the Public Utilities Division. They have proven a success for motorists who are daily testing their worth in the great international area served by Cities Service.

Cities Service is its own largest customer

The Cities Service organization itself is one of the largest users of oil and gasoline in the world. It uses its own oil products throughout its great Public Utilities Division which operates more than sixty public utilities companies serving millions of people in sixteen states. Obviously Cities Service Oil products must measure up to an unusually high standard. Many of the trucks in its vast motor fleet serviced with Cities Service products have gone more than 100,000 miles without overhauling.

When you buy Cities Service Motor Oil you get a specially manufactured, exceptionally high quality lubricant for your car.

These great new oils now sold locally

You, too, are now able to purchase this wonderful lubricant thru the Winona Oil Companies Service Stations, dealers and tank trucks. You'll find it an oil that will give you constant piston seal which means maximum compression and power... greater security and economy of operation... an oil that will stand extreme heats... will outlast ordinary oils... will give continuous lubrication... will enable you to get more mileage from gasoline... give less dilution and carbon trouble... lessened wear and lower repair bills... and increased pleasure and satisfaction in driving.

High School Class Holds Reunion Here

INTERVENING years since the class of 1924 graduated from Appleton high school were quickly forgotten at the first reunion Saturday night at Hotel Northern. FUN EARNING LIVING IN UNITED STATES

BY RUTH GOWAN (Associated Press Staff Writer) Chicago—(P)—It used to read that once upon a time a poor little girl came to the big city to make her way and lived in a hail bedroom.

The modern version tells of a countess who came to Chicago, got a job and signed the Y. W. C. A. register.

The heroine of this story—which is not a fable—is the Countess Anne-Rose Schoenfeldt of Graz, Austria. She is learning interior decorating in a shop here. When quitting time comes she goes to the Harriett Hammond McCormick Memorial Y. W. C. A. That has taken the place of the ancestral castle.

The noblewoman, a tall, brown haired girl, likes her first job.

"It is a real lark to have a job, and be independent here in America," she said. And she makes no bones about the pay envelope being somewhat essential to a meal ticket.

Back home in the Austrian castle—if the war had not depleted the family exchequer—her role would have been to entertain and be entertained to an array of possible husbands, she dined in good English. And to the countess that is "not so hot."

Paris—(P)—The average and ideal American figure for which American buyers order French models is not the mythical 36, according to Miss Dorothy Schmitzer, but a substantial and recognized 38.

Athletics and outdoor life have had much to do with developing American women from the boasted 36 average to measurement to 38, Miss Schmitzer thinks.

Replaster City Hall Sections of wall in various rooms in the city hall are being replastered and repainted. The work is being done by Ed Bauman, contractor, and will probably be completed by the end of the week.

150 Girls Expected At Onaway Isle

APPLETON girls registered for Onaway camp will leave Appleton Thursday morning by chartered bus. They expect to arrive at Mandalay dock, Waupaca, about 11 o'clock, and will take a boat from there to Onaway island. Parents who plan to drive their daughters to Waupaca are asked to time their trip so they will not arrive at the dock before the bus sets there.

Onaway camp, originally scheduled to be a three week period, will last only two weeks, and it is expected that there will be about 75 girls at the camp each of the two weeks.

Special attractions during the camp period will include the Beasley river rowboat trip, which will wind up with either a marshmallow roast or a supper; the Crystal river duck boat trip for advanced swimmers; overnight hikes for the older girls; treasure hunt. Fourth of July fireworks display, stunt nights, and campfire meetings.

CHURCHES JOIN FOR PICNIC IN OSHKOSH PARK

The churches which participated in the Fox River Valley church picnic of the United Lutheran church of America, Sunday at Eweco park near Oshkosh were Our Savior Lutheran church, Fond du Lac, St. John Lutheran church, Oshkosh, St. Paul Lutheran church, Neenah, and Trinity English Lutheran church, Appleton. About 200 members of Trinity English Lutheran church left Appleton after a short devotional service at 9:15 Sunday morning. A joint service was held at the grounds at 11 o'clock which was conducted by the Rev. W. C. Drahm, pastor of St. John church, Oshkosh. The Rev. B. J. Stecker, Fond du Lac, read the Scripture lesson, Rev. F. L. Schreckenberg, Appleton, gave the prayer, and the Rev. P. R. Sievert of Reformation church, Milwaukee, delivered the sermon. Special music was given by a mixed chorus from St. John church, Oshkosh.

The program for the day included a baseball game which was won by the Oshkosh church team, and games for the children. It is estimated that about 2000 people attended the picnic.

THE NEW Saint Sinner By Anne Austin

It would be so easy, Temptation said to Crystal Hathaway, as George Pruitt's arms tightened about her for another embrace and kiss. George was taking her consent for granted, was already happily planning their life together. If she just would say nothing for a little while, just permitted him to plan on and to kiss her now and then, the engagement would be accomplished thing. George would return to his father that very night and triumphantly announce that it was all settled—that he and Crystal were to be married and were very grateful indeed for his generosity in making their marriage and George's career as an artist possible. As easy as that...

"I've always wanted to travel," Crystal argued with her heart. "I remember saying once to Tony that when I came to die it will make me sad and angry to think that there is a spot on the globe on which my eyes have not rested and my feet foot. I want to see all Beauty—natural and created."

But she did not want his kisses. Not that George Pruitt was repulsive, or even faintly unpleasant to her. She liked him, admired him more than any man she knew. But his kisses left her cold, unmoved. "Maybe I'm just bad," she reproached herself angrily for having responded to his first kiss. "It was really eager to have him kiss me the first time. It was the same with Pablo Mendoza. I was in a fever until he had kissed me, and every time that he fever burned lower up to the top of my head, I had gone out entirely, if we'd kept on. And that's horrible, disgusting... I wonder if all girls feel that aching curiously and eagerness until they know what the first kiss will be like.... But what if all girls do? It doesn't make it any less terrible. I knew before George kissed me that I wasn't in love with him, and now I've let him go on and plan not only our wedding but our honeymoon and years of our married life. How can I stop him? And do I really want to marry him? So easy to drift into marriage with George, to be loved and protected and given all the things I've ever wanted—except being in love."

It was no use. She struggled in George's arms, pushed his face away from hers with sudden, almost cruel vigor.

"Don't, George! Please—I've got to tell you—" she panted.

The man's arms dropped instantly, but very gently he took the desperate fighting little hands in his and flattened their palms soothingly between his own.

"What's the matter, Crystal? Have I kissed you too much? Frightened you a little by being too ardent?" he asked quietly, but in the faint light from the little dashboard bulb she saw that he had gone very pale. "I've been so—hungry for love, you know, dear, but I'll try to be more gentle."

"Oh, George!" she wailed, and turned her face sharply away. It was going to be so much harder than she had feared. He was so terribly vulnerable, because of his gentleness. "You haven't been rough or— or ungentle, dear. It's just— just that—I—oh, George, it's so terribly hard to say! You didn't ask me, you know. If you had—" She drew a sobbing breath that seemed to cut her swollen throat. "Don't you understand, George? I—I don't love you enough to— to marry you."

NEXT: Crystal bares her heart and hopes.

SUCCESS IS ACHIEVED BY FORMER MILL GIRL

Cambridge, Mass.—(P)—When fate threw obstacles in the path of Mrs. Claudia Le Blanc Cushman, she used them as a stairway to climb to a higher place in life.

At the time of a fire in Quebec some years ago her name was Claudia Le Blanc—and the flames had left the Le Blancs penniless. So she came to take up life in the United States as a French-speaking mill girl in one of the factories of Lowell, Mass.

The conclusion that working in a mill held no rosy future for her was not long in dawning upon the girl. She was only 19 years old when she started a bank president by telling him she wanted to borrow $20,000 to build a block of new homes. She had no security.

But she had made a study of just what she wanted to do with that money. She knew the location, the type of home, the costs, the possibilities of sale, the approximate profit. She had thought of everything. She got the loan and the venture was a complete success.

As she returned her profits for further building ventures more suc-

THE STYLE sketched, is altogether charming with its flattering berth collar. It can be made with or without sleeves. It offers the woman with a mature figure a sleeveless dress that she can wear and disguise plump arms without a tell-tale. The deep hip yoke, too, makes it quite possible for the stout woman to wear a full flaring skirt. It's definitely smart in black chiffon, lipstick red crepe de chine, flowered voile or chiffon.

THE PATTERN No. 2818 is designed in sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. It contains a Picture Chart, a new method of explaining how to join every part. It is offered at cost price 15 cents (stamps or coin) as a service to readers who sew.

WOMEN STILL ONLY WOMEN TO FRENCH

New Orleans—(P)—The independence and initiative of American women astonished Frenchmen, says Rene Puaux, Paris editor on tour of the United States.

"I do not know where this feminist movement will end," he said. "I think no man knows. It is a strange and new experience in the history of the world."

"In England the politicians now have to calculate on the flapper vote, and here in America your political leaders tell us the same thing. It sounds very strange to the ears of a Frenchman. Stranger still sounds the story of the rise of American women in their political, industrial and professional activities."

The French, says Puaux, possibly are the only remaining conservative realists in that they believe that the difference in dress is not the only segregation point between men and women. The French, he claims, adore women as women, not as business, professional and political rivals.

The Tynmites

By Hal Cochran

THE Tynmites were scared indeed. Their wagon now picked up much speed and bumped across the countryside. They knew not what to do. With both the horses broken loose, the Tynmites found it was no use to try to stop their pell mell pace. So, on and on they flew. "I wish," cried Copsy, "We would find somebody who would be real kind and stop this reeling wagon, but I guess there is no hope. We're bound to travel till we stop. Then we, no doubt, will take a flop. I'd try to lasso some near tree, if I just had a rope."

"Oh, don't talk silly," Scouty said. "Why don't you ever use your hear? 'Twould be absurd to try to rope a tree, or anything. I'm sure that that would stop us quick and throw us all out very sick. The plan is not a good one 'cause real trouble it would bring."

The scarecrow then spoke up. Said he: "I think we're safe as we can be as long as we keep riding. Why, I call this heaps of fun. I don't know how long this will last, but we are going some place fast. I'd rather travel this way than to have to walk or run."

"Of course you would," some one replied. "It's natural that you'd like to ride. You're only stuffed with straw, and it won't hurt you if you fall. With us it's different. Oh my yes. Whenever we fall we're in a mess. We don't like taking chances like we are now. Not at all!"

Just then a big tree loomed nearby, and everyone heard Scouty cry, "Look out. Look out! We're going to crash. We'll shortly end this race!" And he was right. Oh, mercy me! The speeding wagon hit the tree. The scarecrow and the Tynmites promptly sailed right out through space.

(The Tynmites meet a monstrous grasshopper in the next story.)

ROADS MADE SAFER FOR FASTER CARS, HEAVIER TRAFFIC

Banked Curves and Wider
Highways Take Care of
More Automobiles

San Francisco—Increased speed, mechanical improvements and the rapid growth in car registration have necessitated and been responsible for improvements in modern highways, according to C. C. Cottrell, manager of the Highway Bureau of the California State Automobile Association.

In 1929 there were 8,000,000 cars. Today there are 24,000,000. In 1913 only three states had speed limits of from 25 to 45 miles an hour. Today there are 36. In 1920 there were no four-wheel brakes. Today they are the part of every car, together with other safety devices which permit greater speed.

"Today the policy of the federal bureau of public roads is to secure wide right of way which is the primary basis of adequate roads," says Cottrell.

"No federal highway builder would think of creating a road even in the most remote sections of the country, that would be less than 20 feet wide. Researches made by the bureau indicate that the old 16 and 18-foot strips are too narrow for cars to pass each other with a due margin of safety."

"Ten years ago one rarely saw a banked curve, unless it was on a race track. Today all curves on an open highway are banked to a degree that permits a car to be driven on them without lessening its speed. Likewise the radius of curves has been increased."

"Where the country is level the federal engineers make every effort to keep the radius of necessary curves in the neighborhood of 1000 feet. Such a curve is quite gradual and may be negotiated safely at most touring speeds."

"During the past year the federal road bureau regarded a 500-foot radius as the minimum that would be compatible with safety, with the exception of curves in mountainous regions where the radius might be reduced to 100 feet when construction problems were grave enough to warrant such a quick turn."

Gladys Bagg Taber Has
Book of Poems, "Lyonnesse," Published

"Lyonnesse," a book of poetry by Gladys Bagg Taber, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. R. M. Bagg of this city, has recently been published by the Bazar Press of Atlanta, Ga. The volume, with a frontispiece called the Sunken City, takes its name from the first poem in the book, a medieval romance of Lyonnesse, the town that sank beneath the sea and each year, by some unholy spell, rose through the waves and cast a spell over those who looked upon it too long.

For the most part the poems are short and each is an entity of colorful words, careful phrasing and well developed thought. Added to the clear diction and delightful rhythm there is a warm feeling that gives an atmosphere of mellowness to the poems.

DON'T TAKE FAWNS OUT OF WOODS, IS WARNING

Madison — (P) — The conservation department will prosecute, hereafter, persons taking fawns from the woods. The doe do not abandon their young, as passersby in the woods imagine on finding a young deer, conservation experts said. Persons who take the young home for pets for their children are generally taking the fawn from a place the mother has secreted it, the naturalists said. The fawn is not likely to live in a civilized element and no end is served in taking them from the woods, according to the warning posted by the conservationists.

NUNS CAN VOTE, BUT DO NOT

Nuns will be given the right to vote in Strabane, Ireland, according to a recent decision of the Revisions Session, and in consequence the names of the nuns of the Convent of Mercy, Mount St. Joseph, were placed in the Parliamentary list. It was explained, however, that the nuns would not vote in any part of the world because it would be against the rules of their Orders to do so.

A hearing on the state railroad commission on a revision of rates on sand, gravel and crushed stone, charged by several Wisconsin railroads, will be held at 10 o'clock Monday morning, July 29, according to word received here by the chamber of commerce. The commission revised the rates several months ago but the railroads protested and have asked a rehearing.

MARK TOWNS TO AID AVIATORS, PLEA OF GOVERNOR KOHLER

Establishment of Emergency Landing Fields Also Advised

Madison — (P) — Governor Kohler, flight enthusiast, has just made his first announcement in favor of aviation since becoming governor. He stressed the need for marking towns, cities and villages.

"It is very important in the development of aerial commerce that all cities and villages, particularly those of 1,000 to 50,000 population, have some identification plainly visible from the air," he said. "This applies even to those removed from the present air routes for a great deal of flying is done today that does not follow the 'beaten path'."

The governor said he recently lost considerable time in a flight because his pilot was unable to determine his exact position.

Col. Charles Lindbergh, the department of commerce and all agencies interested in the progress of aviation are in favor of the marking plan, the governor said. He favored the regulation marking which includes the name of the town, painted in letters ten to twenty feet high, in chrome yellow, on the roof of a prominent building, with a compass arrow indicating north.

"Helpful suggestions can be secured from the Daniel Guggenheim Fund for the Promotion of Aeronautics, 598 Madison Ave., New York."

"I would also suggest all communities establish and mark a tract of ground level and of sufficient size, as an emergency landing field," the governor continued. "If the size of the community warrants or the growth of the industry justifies, service facilities, lighting and other elaborations in many cases will come as later developments. Some foresight now may lead to advantages later on. There is already evidence that routes chosen by air lines depend upon enterprise of communities to some extent."

The governor called attention to rapid development of amphibious planes "which should be of interest to cities on a lake shore and owners of lakeside resorts. It is usual for an amphibian to alight on the water, lower its wheels and taxi onto land to discharge passengers. This can be done on a firm, smooth, sloping beach, but in many places a wooden ramp is necessary. Suitable ramps would give our lake communities a real place on the rapidly developing air map."

Moscow — (P) — The All-Russian Communist Party received 224,909 new members in 1928, bringing the total of the organization to 1,529,250. Of the total 45.5 per cent are workers and twelve per cent peasants.

NO DEMONSTRATIONS

Dispatches from San Luis Potosi where President Portes Gil spent yesterday quoted him as saying he would not permit staging of public demonstrations except those in thanksgiving at the churches, in connection with the accord just reached with the Roman Catholic church.

His statement followed reception of requests from various parts of the country for permission to stage street demonstrations. Such he said, might originate new difficulties for the country. "I recommend the greatest serenity and tact in all acts and as to avoid exaltation which at the present moment might be criminal."

LUTHERAN THINKS WIVES SHOULDN'T WORK OUTSIDE

River Forest, Ill. — (AP) — Eve doesn't do right by Adam in continuing to bring home a pay envelop after donning her wedding ring, said Dr. W. A. Maier, of continuing seminar, St. Louis, a prominent figure in the 34th triennial convention of the Missouri Lutheran synod here.

The Lutheran church, Dr. Maier said, regards the married woman in gainful occupations as one of the foremost problems of the day and the economic independence she has achieved is a source of pride he believed to be an outstanding reason for the rising divorce rate.

The woman who earns a salary unneeded in the home employs the wrong psychology, the churchman explained. For one thing, he said Adam likes to have Eve at home.

Dr. Maier would not have the highly trained professional woman abandon her work completely and wrap herself in domesticity, but he emphasized the high value the church places on the home, holding wifehood and motherhood as the greatest of woman's occupations. He felt, too, that a married woman in the business world is more of a disadvantage than an asset.

HEAT WAVE BOOMS
SOME BUSINESSES AND HURTS OTHERS

Brings Sales to High Point in Ice and Sugar Industries

BY J. C. ROYLE
Copyright, 1929, By Cons. Press

New York — The heat wave which for nearly 10 days has swept over the country may have made the sugar, ice and dairy products producers uncomfortable in body, but not in spirit. Reports today from various sections indicate that the rise in temperature affected sales of those commodities most favorably and materially. It also aided distribution and consumption of fruits, vegetables and the pressed meats served cold and in sandwiches.

Many other factors went toward bringing profits to those lines of business. Chief among these were the development of truck transportation, the efficiency of modern refrigeration methods and the speed with which the railroads were able to transport the commodities to points where they were needed. Had it not been for those factors, the milk and cream producers could scarcely have benefited to the full.

The gain in sales of ice cream was marked in the cases of the two largest ice cream and milk producers and distributors. These should be sufficient to bring profits for the second quarter to a point far in advance of the pace in 1928, when the gain was around 50 per cent for one and 28 per cent for the other.

The ginger ale concerns and the soft drink manufacturers such as Coca-Cola and Pepsi-Cola are also doing well. Reports of several of the bread bakers show improvement, although this has been due as much to advantageous heat and flour prices as to increased sales.

SUGAR IS AFFECTED
Sugar, which has been in the doldrums, was favorably affected by the increased sales since the ice cream and soft drink manufacturers are heavy purchasers of sweetening.

Vegetable shipments from the south have been heavy and profitable. The fruit growers have not done quite so well as the vegetable men so far but their year is far from over. There has been heavy consumption of tomatoes, lettuce, broccoli and asparagus since the hot spell started.

Five years ago much fruit and vegetables would have been spoiled which this year were marketed advantageously. In some cases the fruit men would not risk distribution where proper refrigeration was not available. For example, a banana ship in Philadelphia held its cargo temporarily because the fruit could be safely kept on board.

There has been a 400 per cent increase in the per capita consumption of ice since 1904. Ice sales in the last 10 days have been exceptionally heavy. The companies in the ice business are many of them gradually getting rid of their natural ice properties and concentrating on artificial ice. These concerns have not been hurt by mechanical refrigeration but have been helped by the educational campaign, which has taught Americans the need and value of refrigeration as a health and economic measure.

Electrical supply houses found the sales of electric fans jumping and their use undoubtedly had some effect on electric current consumption, although it cannot be accurately measured.

The department stores did a rushing business in light underwear, apparel, shoes, hats, haberdashery, bathing suits and sporting goods. "Getting out of town" spurred gasoline sales throughout the country.

On the other hand production in some industrial plants was undoubtedly lowered somewhat by the terrible weather. Building construction workers could not maintain a normal pace in some localities. Hot weather had an adverse effect on the dressed meat trade. Buyers were out of the market, with the result that many cuts had a weak price trend. Pork loins were off about $1 and lamb were weak. Beef cuts were draggy.

Guggenheims Plan Free
Child Dental Clinics

New York — (AP) — Announcement was made today on behalf of Murry Guggenheim and his wife Leonie that they planned to establish free dental clinics for children in all five boroughs of New York.

The announcement did not state the total amount of the foundation. It said between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000 had been set aside for the construction, equipment and endowment of the first unit in Manhattan. That clinic is to be put in operation as soon as possible and a comprehensive plan for the establishment of the other worked out.

The organization, which is incorporated as the Murry and Leonie Guggenheim foundation, has for its broad purpose the promotion of those charities and benevolent activities of the well-being of the world.

The clinics will supply first dental service to children between two and 16 years.

In the announcement, Mr. Guggenheim said:

"Mrs. Guggenheim and I, having become thoroughly convinced of the great necessity for dental relief work, especially among the children of our great city, have decided to do what we can along this line. We are prepared to contribute a large sum of money for the construction, equipment and endowment of non-sectarian clinics for the treatment of children whose parents are not in a position to pay for this most important and essential work."

Dr. S. S. Goldwater, former health commissioner and Edmond A. Guggenheim, their son, are charter members of the foundation with Mr. and Mrs. Guggenheim.

Mr. Guggenheim is a member of the family whose vast fortune was made in the copper industry and is an uncle of Harry F. Guggenheim, president of the Daniel Guggenheim Fund for the Promotion of Aeronautics.

Two stations of 5000 watts each and located within 550 miles of each other are directed to broadcast simultaneously in an effort to synchronize their signals that only negligible interference will result. Engineers say it cannot be done at this time. The stations are KVOO at Tulsa, Okla., and WAPI at Birmingham, Ala.

The commission orders that these stations begin simultaneous operation as soon as practical and for an indefinite period. Radio inspectors of the department of commerce have been asked to check the stations closely and report on results. These stations now divide time on the 1140 kilocycle channel, assigned to the southern zone as one of its eight cleared channels. KVOO is operated by the Southwestern Sales corporation and owned by the Skelly Oil company. WAPI is operated by the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

The experiment is in line with the commission's decision early this month, at which time it voted down the motion of Commissioner E. O. Syles to lay off five of the 40 cleared channels dedicated to high power and national service. The engineering division of the commission was ordered to select a cleared channel for the experiment.

PERIOD IS INDEFINITE
In ordering the experiment, the commission at the same time denied the application of station KVOO, for full time on the 850 kilocycle channel, occupied by stations KWKH, the Henderson "Hello World" station at Shreveport, and WWL the Loyola University station at New Orleans. W. K. Henderson, Shreveport, iron magnate, and owner of KWKH, was charged with using objectionable language over his station by KVOO witnesses but he produced several hundred thousand affidavits from listeners of his station attesting to its merit.

The synchronization experiments on the 1140 kilocycle channels have been ordered for an indefinite period. This is with a view of having them in progress during the fall when "radio season" sets in as well as during the summer months, when the radio service is cut down heavily because of atmospheric conditions. In cooler weather, however, the signals travel best, and the maximum bad effects of the experiments will be noted.

Should the experiment prove effective, it is proposed to cut down the number of cleared channels so as to make room on the air for more stations. Engineers contend that the only way to give the rural and remote listener good radio is on a cleared channel with high power. In the face of the engineering opinion, however, the commission has ordered the test, to learn from practical experience whether or not synchronization is feasible.

Wealthy Chicago Real Estate Man Describes Holdup to Police

Chicago — (AP) — Mrs. Benjamin Bogaus, wife of a wealthy real estate man, was robbed of jewelry valued at $30,000 when she and her husband were held up early today by two young men as they arrived in front of their home after spending the evening in a cabaret.

Bogaus told police that he and his wife had just alighted from their car in front of their home at 414 St. James place, when the robbers, accompanied by two young women, drove up behind them. The bandits drew pistols, and forced the Bogaus into the lobby of the hotel where they live. While one robber guarded Mr. and Mrs. Bogaus and a hotel clerk, the other stripped three bracelets and two rings from Mrs. Bogaus. She told police they were valued at $30,000.

The men made no attempt to rob Bogaus or the clerk.

Bogaus told police that he and his wife had noticed the robbers dancing in the Frolics cafe, on the South side, shortly before they left there to go home. Police said they believed the pair was the same which recently has robbed others after following them home from cafes.

JIMMIE MURPHY may be Irish—but Marty Lamers and his Hollanders who comprise the Kimberly-Little Chute baseball team have all the shamrocks.

The newest addition to Auggie Brandt's Fords came up to Kimberly Sunday and although he allowed 14 hits and Kimberly won the game, 9 and 1, Murphy had all the bad luck in the books. He was supposed to have eight other men helping him during the afternoon and perhaps a few of them did.

But such things as the three fly ball that VanWyck failed to get next to and which accounted for two runs in the first inning and a couple more in the fifth were far from the general opinion of help. And then there was another fault which can be laid before the whole club—when it comes to fight, they fold up like a select bunch of Mr. Simmons's best boys.

This big Irishman who undoubtedly will hold his own with any club in the loop if given some support, started the club fighting in the fourth inning by coming after Pocan and the ball hit was tossing and the ump's when things were not called the way they looked. The result was that Murphy and Kotal kept after "Squaw" until "Poke's" record of 53 consecutive innings without being scored on went by the boards.

Always in there with "the old fight" Murphy saw Baldy Eggert double to open the fifth frame. The next two men were easy outs and then Jimmie brought his war club to the platter. Keeping after what ever Pocan had to offer Murphy handcuffed Marty Lamers with a hot drive down second base and Eggert scored for the local club's only tally.

But Jimmie had all the fight taken out of him in the Kimberly half the inning for he ran into a peck of Art Collier's decision after VanWyck's misjudging of Pocan's fly.

Verstegen started the inning with a single back of third and then Len Smith came to the plate to sacrifice the runner to second. Len laid one down to Bowers who tossed to second and to all indications Kotal caught Verstegen but not in the opinion of the base umpire. Marty Lamers then sacrificed the boys another notch and Bowers came purposely passed. The brought Pocan to the plate and he drove one to right that Van Wyck ran up on and as a result it went over his head and two runs scampered in. Bowers scored on a wild pitch and Pocan counted on Lemmers' single to center that Arnie Hillman expected to field by standing away out in the corner.

League leaders first two runs came in the second inning when Hammen walked, Lamers singled and Van Wyck lost Hartjes high fly in the sun.

The Villagers counted their last three runs in the sixth inning when Hartjes got the luckiest kind of hit by sticking his bat in front of the ball, the horsehide dropping just in front of Dats. Crowe in left, Len Smith and Bowers in right, Hartjes and Smith did the scoring.

Appleton counted eight hits off Pocan but in only one inning were they bunched. Three blows were unpealed in the fifth frame when the single run went over the plate. "Poke" whiffed 13 Appleton batters and issued one base on balls. Jimmie Murphy had four strikeouts to his credit and issued four free tickets.

The Ford infield was shifted around again Sunday because Cully Schultz still is recuperating from the "beating" he got last week. Bowers was at third base and while he bobbed only one play he's far from at home at the fast station and left the bag uncovered on several occasions. His play in the outfield and perhaps his lack of base stealing, there the story Sunday wouldn't have been so sad.

JUNIORS END TRAINING GRIND DURING WEEK

Two practice games this week will wind up the training period for the American Legion Juniors. One game was played Monday afternoon against Neenah, the other will be played Wednesday at Kimberly. The squad will meet at the Post-Crescent at 2:15 Wednesday afternoon to prepare for the Kimberly trek.

The regular schedule for the district title gets underway July 1, according to Eddie Starnard, manager of the Appleton team. There are 14 teams in the district, from De Pere, Green Bay, Kimberly, Appleton, Seymour, Kaukauna, Algoma, Goodman and a few other cities. The district title will be decided by July 23. Last year Appleton juniors lost the championship to Green Bay by a 7 to 6 score in ten innings.

WOMEN ATHLETES

Women athletes, in their nervous excitement, are often worked up to a frenzy and they kick each other, they bite their clothing and trip their opponents," according to an article in Maple Magazine.

Walberg Has Chance To Become Leading Hurler

BY JOHN B. FOSTER

NEW YORK—George Walberg of the Athletics has a chance to be the leading pitcher of the American league this year. He has been particularly successful in winning against Washington. He has won five games from the Senators and lost one. Those five victories almost account for the lead that the Athletics have over the Yankees, and the fact that Connie Mack's boys are in first place.

Walberg pitched for Portland, Ore., in 1922 and looked like a promising left hander. The Giants took him. As has been the case with many pitchers he did not develop rapidly enough to suit John J. McGraw and Walberg was permitted to get away. The Athletics signed him in 1923, the same year in which the Giants let him go and he stuck around with them the remainder of the season and in 1924. Then he needed work, so Mack sent him to Milwaukee. He finished the 1924 season there, winning 16 games and losing 14.

Philadelphia pulled him back and from that time to 1929, he has won 53 games for the Athletics and lost 48. That is not a championship record by any means but it is a worthwhile record because in these days it is handy to have pitchers who can break even in victories and defeats. They are the work horses.

To date, Walberg has won nine games and lost three this year. That is championship baseball with a vengeance and Mack feels more than justified in hanging to him. Some of the Athletic counselors said Walberg would not pull through with his jerky delivery but results just for themselves. It is evident enough that the team has been reimbursed for the salary paid Walberg.

Walberg is one of the few players of major league baseball born in Seattle. He is strictly a son of the northwest and it is interesting in major league baseball to know that most pitchers who have come out of the northwest have been successful. The five victories of Walberg over Washington and Robert Groves' four victories over Boston, are two of the most satisfactory performances by pitchers in either major league.

There is not a pitcher in the National league who has won five games from a single club. Jess Haines of St. Louis has pitched four winning games against Cincinnati. That is the best performance to date.

In the American league George Uhle of Detroit has won three games each from Chicago and St. Louis and Sam Gray of St. Louis has won three games each from Detroit and Chicago. Alvin Crowder has won three games from Chicago and George Blacholder three from Cleveland.

Pitchers of the American league who have failed to come through and whose backwardness is most severely felt are George Fiebras and Herb Pennock of the Yankees. A reasonable doubt existed as to Pennock. After the strain of pitching that long 21 inning game in 1928, his arm has never acted right.

Pocan will bear a lot of watching from other clubs from now on. Three balls were thrown out of Sunday's game because someone with long finger nails had a place on each all cut up so "Poke" could do funny things with the pill. They are to be turned over to league headquarters for further investigation.

Perhaps Kimberly-Little Chute players will breathe a bit easier now that the string is broken. During the last couple weeks it has been "Don't let them score." From now on it will be just a ball game with the admonition changed to "Don't let them get more runs than we have."

The crowd was perhaps the largest that has seen a ball game in this neck of the woods in a long while. The bally-hoo about Pocan's record and the new Appleton hurler turned the trick nicely and the Kim-Little Chute coffers probably are groaning and bulging from the increased gate receipts.

When Kotal and Murphy started their batting along about the fifth inning they almost were booted from the park. The two went after Pocan and the ball he was tossing and also jumped on Block's neck when he didn't call them as they saw 'em. If there were a couple more scrappers on the club perhaps it would get some place.

There'll probably be some changes on the Appleton club before next Sunday rolls around. Several of the boys are more or less excess timber. And there also will be some changes in the batting order. Hillman and Eggert have been picking the onion with regularity of late while several others on the squad have slumped miserably. They'll be shifted around when the team meets Marinette next week.

Murphy may have been a bit generous when he had the count in his favor Sunday but he'll get over that. He fields his position nicely as is noted by three assists and he is everywhere he might come in handy, witness his putout on Thien at third base when Butch was caught between the sacks.

Sonny Tornow has gone hitless in the last two games and as a result his batting mark has fallen flat. Hillman, Kotal and Eggert each got two for four against Pocan. Len Smith was the bat star for the Villagers with three blows out of four trips.

Pocan probably has set a new record for consecutive shutouts. He completed 52 innings before the Fords counted on him. Reports from Kimberly are that it has been found the world's record for this feat was 52 frames. If that's the case "Poke" has a new mark all to himself.

But, both men are bordering on the edge of staleness. If one is to be heave their trainers then the hot weather must be blamed for this. The writer, however, after spending some time with Schmeling is inclined to disbelieve the trainers. The simple fact is that this fight means so much to the two fighters that they have trained as they have never trained before.

Both men, being Europeans, are unused to American ways. The bally-hoo, the camp attendants, crowds at the training bouts, a succession of sparring partners, careful selection of the fighter during rest periods—all this has had a slightly unnerving effect. It has inspired them to saw wood overtime. They have worked too much, sparred too seriously, put too much into their road work.

ATHLETICS BEAT ASKEATON TO TOP LITTLE FOX LOOP

Losers Hold Lead Until Fourth Warders Come to Life in Fifth Frame

Appleton Athletics went into the lead in the Little Fox league Sunday afternoon by trimming Askeaton 8 and 6 out at Interlake park. The two teams previously had been tied for the top honor.

The Fourth warders started the scoring in the initial inning when Herb doubled, stole third and scored on Boyle's hit. Askeaton evened the count in the second when Vils scored and then took a lead in the fourth after two were out when Vils walked and Teteak and Baer hit successive singles. They counted again in the fifth when Brown was safe on an error, Altman singled and Parkin doubled.

The Athletics came to life in the fifth inning with the score 3 and 1 against them and counted four runs to usurp the lead. Herb, first up, tripled and when Horn and Boyle singled they took the lead. E. Verbrick then doubled and Boyle counted and when Vander Linden hit another two bagger, Verbrick registered.

Three more tallies went over the plate in the sixth when Verbrick doubled and Horn, Boyle, E. Verbrick and Vander Linden hits successive singles. Askeaton counted twice in the sixth inning, Vils and Teteak scoring. The last counter came in the seventh when Brown tripled and Altman singled.

Spanish Woodchopper May Be Training Too Hard

LBANY—Paolino Uzcudun is no better or no worse than his opponent Max Schmeling. Both of the contestants in the battle that is hoped, will be a step nearer deciding who is the world's heavyweight champion are at the peak of condition. JIMMY EVANS MEETS NEGRO WELTER TONIGHT

San Francisco—(AP)—Jimmy Evans, sturdy San Francisco welterweight, gets his chance Monday night to step into the boxing limelight when he meets Young Jack Thompson, clever Los Angeles Negro in a ten round bout here.

Thompson knocked out Joe Dundee, welterweight champion, in a non-title fight several months ago and is rated as one of the topnotchers of the welter ranks. The Negro is a strong favorite, although many critics give Evans a chance because of his terrific body punching.

EASTLING HURLS RAPIDS TO VICTORY

In Trouble Most of Time but Survives by Bearing Down in Pinches

Marinette—The effectiveness in the pinches of Eastling, Wisconsin Rapids hurler, who struck out 12, and the clouting of his mates enabled them to defeat Marinette here Sunday by a score of 5 to 2, though the revamped locals, who dropped their ninth straight game in the Fox River Valley league, had runners on bases on five of the nine innings.

Marinette scored its two runs in the second on three straight hits, a walk and a sacrifice. The Rapids got to Ruonavar for thirteen hits, but could score no more than one run in any inning. Plahmer hit a home run on the first ball pitched in the fourth. He also got two singles.

GOLFERS BEGIN PLAY OVER OMAHA COURSE

Omaha, Nebr.—(AP)—Early three hundred welders of wood and iron Sunday sought one of the most highly prized crowns of amateur golf, over the stubborn Omaha Field club course.

It was easily the largest starting field in the tournament's 29 years of play and while several stood out as ranking favorites the result of the six-day grind appeared to be a toss-up.

Arthur Bartlett of Ottumwa, Iowa, the defending champion, drew more backers Sunday when he breezed around the heavily trapped and wooded course in 69, four under par for the 6,400 yard stretch. His round was two short of the record, established by Johnny Goodman of Omaha, and it equaled the best previous practice round oared by Art Cverra of Minneapolis Saturday.

APPLETON CLUB TIES STATES PRISON TEAM

Saturday the Athletics were down at Waupun and met the state's prison team. The game was called at the end of the ninth inning with the count 7 and 7. Prison regulations prohibited playing off the tie after 4:30. Starnegale did the tossing for the Athletics.

Athletics Victors In Last Game Of Series With New York Yankees

Al Simmons Hit Four Homers During Three Days; Bat Average .619

BY WILLIAM J. CHIPMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

THAT hysteria in and about the Yankee stadium now is recent rather than current and the boys are busy checking up the net result, artistic and financial. The Athletics ripped the champions by a 7 to 4 before some 55,000 in the fifth and rubber game Sunday, but the really important transaction took place in the counting house. Exactly 184,096 New York fans paid their way at the gate in three days, making the series a complete victory for Edward Grant Barrow regardless of what happened on the field.

The attendance set a new record for a single series, beating the mark of 177,152 made by the same teams at the same park last September in three afternoons.

MACKS GET $46,024

The only fly in Mr. Barrow's coffee was the necessity of tendering Mr. McGillicuddy a check for $46,024 before the armored vans escaped to a downtown bank with the loot. Although the victory of the Athletics by three games to two was, of itself, hardly decisive, the lead of the Mackmen was stretched to eight and one-half games and the impression spread among metropolitan fans that here, indeed, were the coming champions. The current Athletics have in the face of Yankee fire a confidence lacking by their immediate predecessors and ability to stand up before the Huguen is all that was missing in the Mackmen last year.

The final game was a triumph for Howard Ehmke, the veteran right hander, although George Earnshaw had to be called in the eighth to put down a Yankee upswing which threatened to assume serious proportions. The series ended without the appearance of Eddie Rommel, the knuckle ball expert who never seemed to fool the Yankees.

MURPHY'S CORNERS LOSES TO KAWS, 7-4

Mayefski Knocked Out of Box in Seventh Inning; Kranzusch Succeeds Him

Murphy's Corners lost its third straight game in the Little Fox baseball league Sunday by bowing to Kaukauna on the latter's diamond, 7 and 4.

The Kaws counted one run in the first inning and then rushed two more over the plate in the third. An other run for the Kaws came when Esler, centerfielder, doubled and stole third coming home on a wild pitch.

In the seventh inning the Kaws got to Mayefski with a vengeance and outfitted three runs on four hits before Don Kranzusch could take the firing line and retire the side.

The four runs for the Corners came in the fifth, eighth and ninth innings. The counter in the fifth was the result of a walk and two Kaukauna errors while two runs in the eighth inning came from three solid hits.

Mayefski hurled six and two third innings for the Corners and allowed seven hits, fanning eight batsmen. Kranzusch fanned two and held the Kaws hitless while he worked. Stut got two for four for the Corners. John and Esler also counted two hits each for the Kaws.

KAUKAUNA FROM FOND DU LAC

Fond du Lac—Kaukauna defeated Fond du Lac here on Sunday, 7 to 6 in a Fox River valley league game. The Fond du Lac club staged a brilliant rally in the eighth inning, knocking Thelander, former Wisconsin university star, out of the box, and scoring six runs. Thelander had previously allowed two hits.

HEAVYWEIGHTS HOLD LIMELIGHT ON WEEK'S BOXING SCHEDULE

Uzcudun and Schmeling Battle to Fill Tunney's Vacant Throne

NEW YORK (AP)—Heavyweights in general and Paulino Uzcudun and Max Schmeling more particularly, will "hog" virtually all of the nation's fistie stage this week. The so-called "big boys" Dempsey and the Spanish woodchopper clash over the 15-round route at the Yankee stadium on Thursday of the more optimistic of fans believe that out of the bout will come the next occupant of the heavyweight throne vacated by Gene Tunney. These would-be seers are basing their belief on the theory that Schmeling, will win decisively. The Teuton sharpshooter, certainly has done everything that could be asked of him in his few appearances in America and a triumph over Paulino undoubtedly would boost him into the same class as Jack Dempsey, the two contenders for the crown.

PAULINO NEVER DOWNED

But the cash in all this is the iron-chinned Paulino. The Basque has fought them all and never been dropped. He has lost a few decisions here and there but the majority of his appearances have been winning ones. There is considerable doubt in the minds of some experts whether Schmeling's right hand can halt the ever-crowding woodchopper and whether the Teuton can withstand Paulino's body attack.

The Paulino-Schmeling battle tops a 45-round card at the annual mid fund charity ring carnival. Otto Von Porat, home-crushing Norwegian puncher, meets K. O. Christner, Akron, Ohio, amateur heavyweight slugger, in the ten round semi-final.

STRIBLING TO FIGHT

Although the milk fund show over shadows all other of the coming week's fistie shows, there are a number of other first-rate attractions. George Godfrey, Young Stribling and Johnny Risko, all leading heavyweights, all will swing into action. Risko meets Tuffy Griffith, the Sioux City light heavyweight, in a ten rounder at the Olympia Arena, Detroit, Thursday night. Stribling meets a rugged, if mediocre, foe in California Jack Lee at Flint, Mich., Monday. Godfrey engages Chuck Wiggins, Indianapolis veteran, in a ten rounder at Cleveland Tuesday night.

Chicago's big bout of the week, the opening outdoor bout at Mills stadium on Thursday, finds Jackie Fields, N. B. A. welterweight champion, battling Farmer Joe Cooper for ten rounds or less.

The far west has two first rate attractions. Ace Hudkins takes on Cahley Belanger, Canadian light heavyweight champion, in a ten rounder at San Francisco. Friday night, at Los Angeles Tuesday, Fidel LaBarba meets Earl Mastros, Chicago Bantam.

HISTORIC BELL REMOVED FROM COURT HOUSE

Eau Claire (AP)—The sonorous note that has issued from the court house bell daily since 1838 has been stilled and the belfry made bare.

The old bell, weighing 3,000 pounds and standing five feet in height, developed a crack and county officials fearing the tremendous vibration might damage the court house, recommended its removal. It has been removed and will be junked for what the metal is worth.

Many residents see in the passing of the old bell the removal of an intimate friend while others look upon its demise as "good riddance of bad rubbish."

From the time the bell was installed in the court house tower it pealed its note four times daily. Not only citizens of the town, but farm folk for miles around had grown accustomed to the old bell and had utilized its ringing in setting their clocks. Regularly it was sounded at 6 a. m., noon, 6 p. m. and 9 p. m.

Perhaps the "old times" of the city moing the passing of the old bell but the younger generation probably hails its removal with joy. The 9 p. m. ringing was of significance to them. It was a curfew, warning them to bed.

MINNEAPOLIS LOSES 2 GAMES TO INDIANS

Brewers Under New Management, Split Even With Toledo Mud Hens

BY WILLIAM A. WEEKES Associated Press Sports Writer
Chicago (AP)—If Edward H. Zwilling's Kansas City Blues continue to play the kind of baseball during the remainder of the present road trip, as they have since they left home July 13, they probably will celebrate their return to the Blue-ches field July 4, with a commanding lead in the American association.

With Minneapolis, the Blues' biggest threat at present, in something approaching a serious slump, Kansas City has pegged along until a margin of three full games separates it from the Millers.

The Blues were forced to accept an even break in Sunday's doubleheader with Columbus, but gained ground anyway, Minneapolis helping by dropping two games to Indianapolis. Kansas City overcame a six run lead in the first game and finally licked the Senators, 9 to 7 in 11 innings. Columbus took the second, pitching.

Bill Burwell stopped Minneapolis with four hits in the first game of a doubleheader at Indianapolis and the Indians copped, 5 to 2. Teachout was rapped for 10 hits in the second, but kept them well enough separated to give Indianapolis a 7 to 2 margin.

Milwaukee Brewers, operating under new leadership in the person of Marty Berghammer, split a double bill with Toledo, both games being decided by the same count, 3 to 2. Rosy Ryan restricted the Mud Hens to four hits in the opener, and Bud Parmelee, Toledo's young but high priced righthander, came back to pitch the occupants of Swayne field to victory over Charlie Robertson, in the second contest. Parmelee drove in the tying run by tripling with McCurdy on, and scored the winning marker on Smith's sacrifice.

Louisville and St. Paul also broke even in a doubleheader. The Saints hammered out an 11 to 6 victory in the first game, but bowed to Joe Deberry, 9 to 5, in the twilight contest.

SCHUBLE IS GAME

Although Heinie Schuble, Detroit shortstop, was struck in the face by a batted ball in a recent game, he kept on playing. After the game it was discovered a bone in his cheek had been broken.

Do you think that Chiropractic adjustments will help me if I decide to take them from you? Please answer in your column.—Mrs. C. E. S.

ANSWER: Chiropractic is in complete harmony with the inherent forces of the body. The human organism contains a marvelous vital life force, or nerve impulses. These nerve impulses are the life of the body. They are transmitted from the brain, through the spinal cord, thence by way of nerve trunks that find their exit through the openings between the vertebrae. When the spinal column is in normal alignment, the brain generates and transmits this vital life force to all organs of the body without interference.

Health is the natural result. However, when vertebrae become subluxated (out of normal position) pressure is produced upon the nerve trunks, with consequent interference to the normal transmission of this vital life force. This interference causes a condition of disease, which manifests itself in the organs of the body that are affected by such interference.

The Chiropractor locates these points of interference in the patient's spine and then proceeds to adjust the vertebrae, or vertebrae, responsible for the interference. Thus, by releasing the nerve pressure that is causing the interference, the Chiropractor enables the vital life force within the patient to manifest itself normally and thus restore health.

Therefore, let me suggest to you that health will follow adjustments, if you will allow time for these corrections to be made in your spine, by your Chiropractor.

QUESTION: Can you do anything for asthma?—H. A.

ANSWER: Yes, good results have been obtained in such cases. When the vertebrae are adjusted and the pressure is removed from the great nerve trunk supplying your bronchial tubes your breathing difficulties will eventually leave.

HOUSE POSTMASTER GETS $800 RAISE TO $5,000 A YEAR

Secretaries Also Get Salary Boosts as Result of New Bill

BY RUBY A. BLACK (Washington) Correspondent of the (Post-Crescent)

Washington—Frank W. Collier of La Crosse, for years postmaster of the House of Representatives, gets a raise of $800 a year in salary as the result of a bill passed by Congress just before adjournment.

His salary is now $4,200 a year. Under the new law it will be $5,000 a year. The cost of running the House of Representatives post office under the new law will be $70,400 a year instead of $61,290 a year as at present, as every employee gets a raise. There are, in addition to Postmaster Collier, an assistant postmaster, a registry clerk, 34 messengers, and a laborer.

All secretaries to congressmen, and this includes Miss Lola Hull of Black River Falls, secretary to her father, Representative Merlin Hull, and Miss Grace Nelson of Madison, secretary to her father, Representative John M. Nelson, will also be raised. The amount of their raises under the new law will depend upon whether congressmen have only one secretary or clerk or two. At present each congressman not chairman of a committee has an allowance of $4,000 a year for clerk hire, not more than $3,300 to be paid to one clerk, and under the new law each congressman gets an allowance of $5,000 a year, not more than $3,900 to be paid to one clerk.

So far, Representative Hull has had only one clerk, his daughter, and if he continues to have only one, she will be raised from $3,300 a year to $3,900 a year. Representative Nelson has two, and it is not revealed how the present $4,000 is divided between Miss Nelson and Mrs. Virginia Saunders, also formerly of Madison.

ADDS TO STAFF

But Representative Nelson will have additional office staff next session, anyhow, as he is to be chairman of the Committee on Invalid

NEW FINDINGS CHANGE WHITEFISH PRODUCTION

Chicago (AP)—A new understanding of the problem of whitefish conservation in the Great Lakes has been obtained with the discovery of isolated races which do not inter-mingle.

The fish were studied for five years by Dr. Walter Koelz, in collaboration with the bureau of fisheries, and proof now is offered that protective measures must be founded on a knowledge of the relationships of the various types.

There is danger that each race may be fished out and exterminated separately. They are one of the greatest natural products of the Great Lakes and of vast economic importance.

The new knowledge will point the way to more thorough methods of protection. Previously, whitefish were considered as one common, inter-mingling type and conservation measures were framed on that basis.

Pardoned Mexican Fights For Return Of $70,000

Boston (AP)—Mariano Viamonte Fernandez former cashier-general of Mexico, is coming back to the courts of Massachusetts to demand the return of a small fortune, wrested from him five years ago.

Charged with absconding with 140,000 pesos, or about $70,000, when he relinquished his post in the Mexican Bureau of Finance, Fernandez learned, after his arrest, that his money had been attached.

He spent five years in the jails of New Hampshire and Mexico, awaiting trial, and was recently pardoned by President Portillo Gil of Mexico, before the courts had opportunity to determine his guilt or innocence. Tomorrow he will appear in the equity session of the Salem court.

His pardon, in hand, as proof that the attached money rightfully belongs to him.

He will demand the release of an attachment of $10,000 which has been held by the Haverhill National bank on a claim by the Mexican government that it was part of the money taken by him when he turned his office over to his successor.

Mexican secret service agents trailed him, some five years ago, from Mexico City to New York and then to Newton, N. H., where Mrs. Fernandez had purchased a 70-acre farm. He deposited his money in the Haverhill bank, and then began the five year fight for its control.

The Mexican government attached the money through action in a Massachusetts equity court. He was seized by federal authorities and freed by the United States commissioner at Concord, N. H.

A new appeal by the Mexican government to United States authorities resulted in his release as a fugitive and he was held in $25,000 bond. Unable to obtain bail he waited in the county jail at Concord, N. H., for two years and finally lost his fight in the United States Supreme court.

He was then taken back to Mexico City and spent three years in jail there.

NEW AERO-SLEIGHS CROSS RUSSIAN SNOWS

Moscow (AP)—Aero-sleighs, driven at 35 to 45 miles an hour by airplane propellers, recently travelled 2,100 miles from Moscow to Perm and back. Four sleighs took part in the complete run and five more accompanied them on the first day's journey.

The machines have a body of automobile design and look, except for the propeller, like an ordinary car mounted on runners. Under good conditions a speed of around 50 miles an hour can be attained.

DEBATE HAND ORGAN ANNIVERSARY WORTH

Rome (AP)—The anniversary of the hand-organ, that "piano of the poor" introduced in America by the first big waves of Italian immigrants, occurs this year, but whatever musical authorities have designed to take notice of the anniversary are sharply divided as to whether the event should be commemorated.

In Florence the musical newspaper "Lo Stadio" has come out strongly in favor of a fitting celebration. "La Tribuna" of Rome, however, is dead set against it.

Heroizing the hurdy-gurdy as the savior of the lowly and also as the propagandist of the more popular snatches of Italian opera, seems highly worth-while to the Florentine sheet. Not so, retorts La Tribuna, asking when will the "organo" be accompanied by the outstretched palm of the attendant monkey, finally be banished from the fair streets of new Italy.

"It seems to us," snorts La Tribuna, "that we should keep up the dignity of the capital."

Manila (AP)—This city's first "talkie" apparatus is on its way from the United States. There is speculation as to whether the talking pictures will be a success as few of the Filipinos who make up most of the patronage of the theatres, understand English.

STATE FISHERMEN AT WORK AT WEYAUWEGA

Removing Carp and Suckers to Make Room for Game Fish

Weyauwega—Fred Bishop, Madison, working under the direction of the State conservation commission and N. Tollefson, helper, are working in Weyauwega lake to extract rough fish including carp, suckers, red horse, and others.

Game fish have been planted in the lake several times, only to be destroyed and eaten by the large rough fish.

The state employes have as their equipment motor boats, barges, seines and cribs, also a live catch box.

They plan to ship the live fish to New York where they are to be sold. At present they are clearing the lake, bottom of snags and, perhaps will pull some of the stumps in an effort to make way for their seines.

There have been some big catches of black bass by local fishermen since the black bass season opened a few days ago, it is reported. August Fandry caught a 22-pound bull head on Friday.

Harry Farley has purchased the restaurant of A. Dobberstein, formerly known as the Reas restaurant. Mr. and Mrs. Farley took immediate possession.

The Weyauwega Presbytery met here on Thursday at the Baptist church which is being used while the Presbyterian edifice is being redecorated.

The Rev. M. Lutz who recently graduated from the Presbyterian Theological Seminary of Chicago was ordained by the Presbytery at the service Thursday evening. The Rev. Lutz was also installed as pastor of the local church.

The Rev. J. J. Wilson, D. D. of Oshkosh, the Rev. C. H. Phillips of Stevens Point, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Damp of Shawano attended the service.

The case of Mrs. George Miller for driving without proper license plates a few days ago, was heard in the village hall Friday afternoon. The jury disagreed and the case was postponed until July.

Several Weyauwega residents who have been away for several months and are here for the summer are: Miss Anna Fencelon, who has been in Cleveland, O., with her niece Eunice, landscape artist in that city; Bernice Bratz, who has been at the University of Wisconsin; Merle Dunbar, radio operator on the U. S. S. Fanning, at New London, Conn.; Florence Halre who has been teaching in Kentucky; and Mrs. George Foster of San Francisco, Calif., formerly Genevieve Ballard.

The Camp Fire Girls met Friday at the Bent Mission hall.

The band concert, which was to have been held at the school grounds Friday night was postponed on account of rain.

CONDUCT LAST RITES FOR MRS. BERT BOOTH

Clintonville Woman Drops Dead After Return from Car Ride

Special to Post-Crescent
Clintonville—Funeral services for Mrs. Bert Booth, 63, who died at 5 o'clock last Tuesday afternoon, were held from the Methodist church at 1:30 Friday afternoon. The Rev. W. C. Kurtz was in charge of services. Burial was made at Graceland cemetery.

She was returning from an automobile ride with her son Noel, and had just returned home when she fell dead. She had been in ill health for the past few years and during the past year spent many months at Belin Memorial hospital, Green Bay.

Mrs. Booth, nee Leora C. Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Johnson, was born in the town of Union, October 9, 1865. In 1885 she was married to Bert Booth.

The couple first lived at Crandon, then Rhinelander and Oconomowoc, and after spending 18 years in Grand Rapids, Minn., they returned to Clintonville about six years ago to make their home on a small farm near the west limits of this city on the Marion rd.

She is survived by her widower; one son, Noel; four sisters, Mrs. Sylvia Jorgensen, Mrs. Ulrich Fletcher of this city; Mrs. Fan Smith of Lakeview; and Mrs. Maggie Wilcox of Sacramento, California. Two brothers, Jesse Johnson of Bear Creek and Charles of Marble also survive.

L'FOLLETTE WINS PARTIAL VICTORY ON SECRET VOTES

Senate Decides to Abolish, at Least Partly, Private Sessions

BY RUBY A. BLACK
(Washington Correspondent of the Post-Crescent)

Washington—The Senior Senator from Wisconsin, Robert M. La Follette Jr., left Washington for a short rest over the weekend, pleased that at least a partial victory had been won on the issue on which he made his hardest fight during the first part of the special session of congress.

"When 'Young Bob' started out to abolish secret executive sessions of the senate for consideration of nominations for federal posts, it seemed that he faced a hopeless battle. He encountered delay after delay, but finally on the day before the recess was taken, the senate decided to abolish, partly at least, the secret surrounding confirmations which it has maintained throughout its history."

Senator LaFollette favored complete publicity on all nominations. The rules committee succumbed to the extent of recommending that the rules be changed to provide that nominations shall be considered in closed executive sessions unless the senate, in a closed session, by a majority vote, decides to have an open session, and that all roll calls taken in closed executive session be published in the Congressional Record.

ENTERS AMENDMENTS
The senate, however, changed this by amendments providing that all nominations and treaties shall be considered in open sessions except when the senate votes by a majority, in closed session, to hold secret session; that a majority can vote to make public any nomination confirmed in secret session.

It was this final point for which the late Senator LaFollette contended throughout his long career in congress, and which his son has continued to insist upon along with other senators, including Senator James Couzens of Michigan.

Senator LaFollette believed that, notwithstanding the fact that the rules committee recommendation provided for starting out in closed session and obtaining a majority to have an open session, the measure adopted provided for less publicity than the rules committee proposal, since the latter provided that roll calls always be made public. But he voted for the amended proposal, and after all the fireworks against open sessions, only five senators voted for secrecy in the end.

The senate has confirmed—not in open session—the nomination of Francis Stone as postmaster at Park Falls, action being taken before the rules were changed.

Representative and Mrs. John M. Nelson of Madison, their daughter and son, Miss Grace Nelson and Harold Nelson, and Miss T. J. Peterson of Madison will leave Washington Monday to drive back to Madison.

Representative and Mrs. Merl H. Hull and Miss Lois Hull, their daughter, have already started back to Black River Falls, also by motor car, and expect to arrive Tuesday.

Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., will remain in Washington through this week at least, and will possibly go home to Madison later. Senator John J. Blaine drove home to Bos-cobel some weeks ago.

Representative George J. Schneider of Appleton had not made his plans as this is being written, and most of the rest of the Wisconsin congressmen had left Washington.

Leo Milan Jackson of Neillsville, Wis., has accepted appointment as a major in the Infantry Reserve, and Norman Hans Thone of Ashland has accepted appointment as a second lieutenant in the Infantry Reserve.

HULL BATTLES COMMITTEE
Wisconsin's newest congressman, Representative Merl H. Hull of Black River Falls, has had the job of going to bat with the Senate Finance Committee for the scheduled Wisconsin interests want in the tariff bill. He appeared against the increased duty on Sumatra tobacco, used as wrappers on the 5-cent cigars filled with Wisconsin tobacco, insisting that whatever duty is imposed on cigar wrappers will come out of the pockets of the grocers of filler and binder. He appeared to urge a 19-cent duty on butter and higher duties on all dairy products than the tariff bill as passed by the House of Representatives provides.

Seven of Wisconsin's 11 congressmen joined to present their wishes to the Ways and Means Committee of the House, but the newest and smallest was sent over to the Senate Office Building to tell a sub-committee of the Finance Committee what Wisconsin wants.

It was there that, in response to a little heckling from Senator Tom Connally of Texas, Representative Hull said that he really was elected as a "regular Republican."

The Texas Democratic Senator had inquired what Wisconsin did not vote "regular" if it wanted to get its tariff demands insisted by the Republican Senators.

Representative Hull's "regularity" has been the subject of some comment by his constituents. He voted against the tariff bill, while the rest of the Wisconsin congressmen, all but Representatives William H. Stafford of Milwaukee being progressives, voted for it. He voted against the census and reapportionment bill, advocated by the administration. Thus on two out of three votes he went against the regular Republican.

Some of his constituents write to congratulate and approve him and some write to ask why.

His guiding motive seems to be that he doesn't want to vote for a measure unless he thoroughly approves it.

But what seems funny is that the one Wisconsin congressman who voted against the tariff bill is the one who is going before the Senate Finance sub-committee to explain what Wisconsin wants of the tariff.

LIFE'S ODDITIES

Florence Honors Saint With Ancient Ceremony

Florence, Italy—(AP)—Florence's 1,000-year-old ceremony of honoring the city's patron saint, John the Baptist, was celebrated today with all the color of the middle ages.

Religious ceremonies, fireworks, the parades and a carriage race in one of the principal streets of the town were combined to carry out the old traditions.

The observance began at 8 o'clock this morning with a cannon salute from Fort Belvedere. A little later the Royal Society of St. John the Baptist marched in costume to receive the municipal authorities. The mayor and his following came from the Vecchio palace in parade formation, preceded by a squadron of guards in full uniform and pages and trumpeters in costume.

The two processions, with bands, proceeded together to the Church of St. John, where the mayor made an offering of candles to the archbishop of the diocese. High mass was celebrated in the cathedral at 10:30, by Cardinal Mistrangelo.

The afternoon was turned over to the civil celebrations. One feature was the giving of dowries by the municipality to poor girls who stood little chance of being married unless a dowry were one of their attractions.

The celebrations, particularly the fireworks, drew to Florence thousands of peasants from surrounding towns. The Arno was gay with hundreds of boats sailing as near the fort as they could get to watch the pyrotechnics.

The observance of the feast of St. John the Baptist at Florence dates from a period between 662 and 671.

REPORT FINDINGS ON SOUTHERN CROSS

Committee Exonerates Crew of "Publicity" Charge in Its Report

Meybourne, Australia—(A) — The committee of inquiry into the forced landing of the aeroplane Southern Cross recently in eastern Australia, announced its report today. There was nothing in it to indicate Captain Charles Kingsford Smith and shipmates had at all prearranged the landing which ended their flight in western Australia.

The report stated that there was no inference impugning the crew's honesty. The committee considered the crew justified in standing by the machine in preference to searching for the Port George mission which was in that region. Although Captain Charles T. Uim, the plane's pilot, absolutely denied making any such remarks. The committee was of the opinion that he had said something to the effect that publicity would be gained by being lost in central Australia but that he probably did not make any serious business proposals.

There was no evidence, however, that the crew attempted to conceal their position or avoid being found.

Regarding the Kookaburra tragedy, in which Lieut. Keith Anderson and Robert Hitchcock lost their lives while searching for the Southern Cross, the committee considered the machine not suitable for the flight and that the primary cause of the planes loss was the inaccuracy of the compass.

The committee declared it was desirable that further regulations regarding future long distance flights should be adopted.

Of Interest To Farmers

NEW ROUTING WILL SAVE FARMERS $100 ON EACH CATTLE CAR

Representative Hull Takes Matter to President and Gets Action

(Washington Correspondent of the Post-Crescent)

Washington—Wisconsin farmers who ship cattle to Chicago will save $75 to $150 a car in the future, it is estimated, because Representative Merion Hull of Black River Falls took up with President Hoover a problem which had been before the Interstate Commerce commission for months without being acted upon.

It is not unusual for congressmen to go to the White House on such matters. They go to the federal department or commission concerned. But Representative Hull was impatient with delays at the Interstate Commerce commission. He got a petition from cattle raisers in Vernon-ville asking prompt action. This he took to the White House, saying, "Here is a question of farm relief on which you can get immediate action."

And he got it.

The problem was particularly acute in Vernon-ville, which is served only by branch lines. Because of bad routing, stock shipped to Chicago would sometimes stay on the road 24 to 36 hours, losing every hour the pounds on which their price in Chicago is based. This shrinkage in transit is estimated to amount to $75 to $150 a carload.

POINTERS FOR THE EFFICIENT FARMER

(By U. S. Department of Agriculture)

The best time to cut oats is when it is in the hard dough stage. If cut before, the grain is not well filled. It shatters in cutting and is light in weight. It allowed to become fully ripe before cutting, a considerable part of the crop shatters out and is lost in harvesting.

To get the most and best-quality seed from a sweet clover crop, harvesting should be done when about half the pods are black. If the first growth is allowed to seed, the stalks will be very tall and coarse and hard to handle. When the seed has been grazed until the last of June or a hay crop has been taken, the second growth is less coarse and the seed ripens more evenly.

Laying hens need mash during the summer months to keep up good egg production. Good results are obtained if they get about twice as much mash as scratch feed. It is a good plan to add five pounds of linseed meal to every 100 pounds of mash to help get the hens in good condition for molting. Milk is very desirable in the summer ration, and plenty of green feed should be available.

After the breeding season is over, a hen's feed should be reduced so that she keeps in good, thrifty condition. Only a small quantity of corn need be given him, the main feed being middlings or shorts, oats, or a little linseed meal, with the run of a good pasture.

To reduce danger of bloating, cattle and sheep should be given a good fill or dry feed, particularly roughage, before they are turned on green forage such as red clover or alfalfa for any length of time. Dew and rain increase the danger of bloating.

Buckwheat is an excellent crop to sow where corn or some other crop has failed to make a stand. The ground can be prepared for buckwheat by disking or harrowing. The best seeding time for any locality can be determined fairly accurately by allowing a period of 12 weeks for growth before the first killing frost is expected.

BULLETINS HELP TO CHECK T. B. IN FOWLS

The influence which two farmers' bulletins are having in combating tuberculosis of fowls in Michigan is reported by Dr. T. S. Rich, federal inspector in charge of the work in that state. "In our tuberculosis eradication work," he says, "the field inspectors make an investigation of poultry diseases on every farm they visit. Where evidence of disease is found and reported we follow up with a letter inclosing a copy of Farmers' Bulletin 1200-F, Tuberculosis of Fowls, and also Farmers' Bulletin 1554-F, Poultry House Construction. This system of follow-up work is of considerable value since we have found that nearly 60 per cent of the persons having diseased poultry on their premises follow the instructions of our letter and the bulletins. At least 50 per cent of those people also improve their poultry houses either by building new ones or changing their present houses to conform largely to the recommendations of Farmers' Bulletin 1554-F."

BOYD WILL SPEAK AT CONFERENCE

Kaukauna Physician Will Address Sanatorium Superintendents

Kaukauna—Dr. C. D. Boyd, trustee of Riverview sanatorium, is to be a speaker at the sanatorium superintendents' and trustees' round-table meeting which is to be a part of the ninth annual mid-year sanatorium conference of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association, July 5. "Everyday Problems Facing the Sanatorium Trustee" will be the subject which Dr. Boyd will discuss at this conference to be held at Lake Tomahawk State Camp, Lake Tomahawk. This camp is for the rehabilitation of men threatened with or convalescing from tuberculosis.

Problems dealing with the sanatorium's part in the fight against tuberculosis will be discussed at this conference which will also be attended by members of the Minnesota Sanatorium Association. The morning session of the conference will be a general one to be presided over by Dr. Hoyt E. Dearholt, executive secretary of the W. A. T. A. Col. John J. Hanan, chairman of the state board of control, will give the address of welcome. The responses will be made by Miss May P. Hughes, superintendent of Mt. View Sanatorium, Wausau, and Dr. A. T. Laird, superintendent of Nopenung sanatorium, Duluth, Minn.

Three addresses will be given at the morning session on the sanatorium treatment of tuberculosis: "Change Methods of Treatment" will be discussed by Dr. A. A. Pleyette of the W. A. T. A.; "Hardening the ex-patient for Life's Work" by Frank A. Reich, superintendent of Lake Tomahawk State camp; and "Tuberculosis and Children" by Dr. J. A. Myers, medical director of the Lymanhurst School for Tuberculous Children, Minneapolis.

Two round-table meetings, one for sanatorium superintendents and trustees and the other for physicians, will comprise the afternoon program of the conference. Dr. G. L. Bellis, superintendent of Muriad sanatorium, Wausau, will preside at the former round-table meeting and Dr. T. L. Harrington of the W. A. T. A. at the latter.

Low up with a letter inclosing a copy of Farmers' Bulletin 1200-F, Tuberculosis of Fowls, and also Farmers' Bulletin 1554-F, Poultry House Construction. Good Fishing Offered In Main Wolf River

BY B. A. Claflin

Here is a nice trip for anyone desiring good fishing and scenery combined, and yet one which can be made in a single day of moderate driving. Mentioning Green Bay as a central starting point the whole round trip drive is just a hundred and fifty miles. Take highway 29 from Green Bay or 47 from Appleton to Shawano, and 35 from there to Langlade; or 64 from Marinette direct to that point.

From Langlade you can fish the main Wolf river at Dan's place just a mile below town; or at Twenty Day Rapids still further down, and yet at Gardner Dam. By the way, at this old dam Harvey Alf caught a two and a half pound speckled trout last week, as well as a goodly number of others of lesser size but still better than the average of what are called big speckled trout now a days.

I made this trip last Sunday which I am now describing. I saw the outlines drawn on paper of some wonderful trout recently taken from the Wolf at the different points I have named. One Rainbow measured twenty-two inches in length and weighed three and a half pounds. Many others were recorded from one pond up.

It had rained very hard a day or two before I arrived there and the fishing was not as good as it had been, and yet I landed thirteen trout, the largest of which weighed one and a half pounds. It was a rainbow, the others were speckled.

From Langlade I crossed the Wolf on 64 and continued to the junction with county line M. From there I drove to White lake. Here I found pickerel fishing at its very best. Just for the sport of it I landed several using my fly rod and a small spinner with pork strip.

From White lake I continued on M, which takes a big curve through the reservation, back to where it crosses the Wolf and joins highway 35. The road, after leaving 35, is one of the finest in the state, strewn heavily all the way, and the scenery fine. It is a wonderful one day drive.

If you prefer, you can leave county line M on the way from White lake to 55 and fish the North branch of the Evergreen river, where you will find the trout fishing good, although the fish do not run as large as they do in the big river.

Much of the petty trade of rural Mexico is still done by barter. Give me an egg's worth of salt and candies, a woman will tell a grocer.

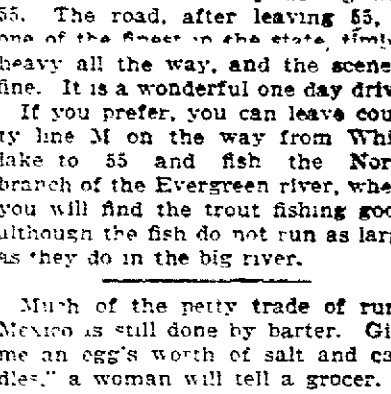

Doctor at 83 Found People Preferred His Prescription

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice, known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs with pepsin.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. If grown people want to use them no one can deny them the privilege, but they should never be given to children.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the other for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs? All drug stores have the genuine bottles.

Many is the family today that makes it a rule always to have a bottle of this perfect preparation in the house. Keep it handy and observe these three simple rules of health: keep the head cool, the feet warm and the bowels open.

Why not try Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin today?

We do all kinds of Furniture Repairing, Upholstering, Recovering, etc.

Chapter 17
LOVE DEFIES THE LAW

How was I to keep it from Lucy? But when I looked into her eyes I knew there would be no keeping it from Lucy.

"It was headquarters. Deacon is dropping in here. They—they want him to call up."

"There's something else, Uncle John. Something about Jerry. What is it?"

"Steady, old girl," I pleaded, dropping an arm over her shoulder. "Somebody saw Jerry driving along the Peskella road toward Skull Valley the night before last."

"Skull Valley—Terridity," she whispered.

I nodded. "Probably."

"I thought he might have gone there. Deacon is coming here, you say. You won't tell him?"

"I shall have to, Lucy. If I don't, they'll call him at Ogdens'."

"Yes, of course! Oh, dear! what are we to do?" She clasped her hands desperately. "What can we do?"

"Jerry will explain," I mumbled. "Don't we know he's done nothing to be afraid of?"

She turned on me fiercely. "Of course we do! And of course he'll explain, but will Deacon accept his explanation? If Jerry were to come back now and give himself up Deacon probably would. But Deacon believes Jerry did it and if he finds him out there he'll think he's hiding—don't you see?"

This was my own view of the matter. If we could have warned Jerry that Deacon was on his trail the boy could then have anticipated arrest by giving himself up to the police. A thought struck me.

"If Jerry has been in Skull Valley since the night before last he may not know—about his father. The town is abandoned. There are no telephones, no newspapers, no means of communication. That's why he hasn't turned up."

"Of course that's why, Uncle John," the girl cried frenziedly. "A car had stopped in front of the house. Lucy's face whitened; then a queer, excited look leaped into her eyes and she slipped into the hall. Her cheeks were burning when she returned.

"It is Deacon and he's alone! Let me handle him, Uncle John! Please!"

"Handle him! My dear child! What do you mean? It's Jerry's only chance! You must let me try it! Promise me you will, Uncle John!"

"Why, why—good Heavens, girl! Oh, very well! What do you want me to do? He's here now."

"Nothing! Just stay here and don't interfere whatever I do! Promise!"

"Oh, very well," I promised. She was off in a flash, shutting the door behind her. The front door opened.

"Hello, Miss Lucy," Henry greeted her. "Is Uncle John up, yet?"

Lucy laughed. "Hours ago, Captain Deacon. We were just looking at Polyandria's new babies."

"Where are they?" Deacon exclaimed heartily.

Henry has a warm spot in his heart for Polyandria and I wasn't surprised to hear him follow Lucy down the hall. What she was going to do with him I hadn't the slightest idea.

"In here, Captain Deacon," Lucy said pleasantly.

"I don't see them, Miss Lucy."

"Over there in the corner. Go right in."

A door slammed, a key turned, and my heart climbed into my throat. Only one door in the house slams like that. A massive piece of finely polished English oak. I had picked it up cheap at Hyde's and hung it in the entrance of a little store-room near the patio. A few trunks occupy the room and the one small window is not large enough for a man to pass through.

Lucy came racing down the hall. "Uncle John!" she panted. "Are you mad?" I cried, flinging open the door of my den. "Let him out at once!"

She beat on my chest with her fists. "You promised you wouldn't interfere! Don't you dare!" And then pleading followed frenzy. "It's Jerry's only chance, Uncle John! Please! Please!"

"His only chance! Nonsense! You are making things worse for him. Do as I tell you!"

She stamped her foot at me. "Don't you see? If I get to Jerry first and he gives himself up it'll make all the difference. The evidence is against him—we know it is—his best way of fighting it is by coming back of his own free will. Deacon cannot accuse him of hiding in Terridity; then, can he?"

"My dear child! Do you suppose after you have gone to the length of imprisoning Deacon that the act of surrender will help Jerry?"

"Don't 'dear child' me, Uncle John! Why shouldn't it? What I do isn't Jerry's fault. Captain Deacon will be furious, but you must smooth him over!"

"You have a high regard for my diplomatic abilities," I said grimly. "Give me that key!"

"I will not!" Her face fell into lines of supplication again. "Don't let him out, Uncle John! Goodby!"

Ending me easily, she went on through the front door, slamming it shut behind her. I was after her as fast as my old legs would carry me, but by the time I got out into the garden she was climbing into Deacon's police car. What madness wasn't she capable of! Deacon must have left the key in the ignition for as I ran down the walk shouting to her the car throbbed in its vitals and slid away from the curb.

"You promised, Uncle John!" Her voice high and clear, blew back to me.

Sick at heart I tumbled on a cement bench near by. Deacon, my friend, was pounding on my old English door and Lucy, my niece, was on her way to Skull Valley.

Skull Valley! If you want a trenchant simile for blistering heat and pitiless cold there it is. The name is a symbol. Gold is the valley's heart, borax and salt its winds blown beard, poisoned waters its blood, and lizard, sidewinder and vulture the furtive tenants of its evil house. A few of the mines are running; many of them are not. Here and there an abandoned mining camp rattles its bare bones in the wind blasts. Terridity is one.

And to Terridity, 60 miles away, Lucy was driving like the wind bareheaded and without even a canteen of water!

Lucy takes the fight for her chance into her own hands. What will be the outcome of her rash act? Another episode in tomorrow's chapter.

DOUBLE EDGED

"Isn't it hard," said the landlady, "to think this poor lamb was cut down in its youth to satisfy our appetites?"

"Yes," replied the unhappy boarder at the end of the table, "it is tough."—Tit-Bits.

ON THE SHORT END

"Does your wife play bridge for money?"

"No, but her opponents do," mournfully replied the husband.—Life.

WOMEN TO GATHER

Berlin—Plans are rapidly being made for the reception of more than 100 guests, representing 44 countries will attend the congress of the World Suffragist Alliance here from June 17 to 23. The preparations are in charge of Mrs. Margaret C. Ashby of London and Frau Adele Schreiber-Greiger of Berlin.

U. S. FOREIGN TRADE SHOWS BIG INCREASE

More Than 21 Billion Involved in Transfers, Commerce Report Reveals

Washington (AP)—International payments between the United States and foreign nations in 1928, materially increased by the international movement of goods, gold, and service, were estimated today by a commerce department study to have involved more than $21,000,000,000. Of this total, $10,648,000,000 represented credit items which the United States ran up against the world by international trade, while $10,608,000,000 represented debit items, the cost of goods, gold and service obtained by Americans from foreign purveyors.

To make up the figures, the department included every item of "invisible exchange," which embraces such items as the interest payments on foreign debts, insurance, and freight costs on foreign shipments, and the expenditures of American tourists as well as the regularly estimated items of exports and imports.

The "invisible" portions of the account exceeded the totals in the visible commodity trade.

The nation was found to have gained an international credit of $5,334,000,000 by export of goods; of $217,000,000 by interest on foreign investments, and of $1,634,000,000 from the sale of American securities to foreigners.

GOODS SENT TO U. S.

On the other side of the ledger, foreigners were shown to have sold $4,497,000,000 in goods to the United States, to have gained more than $750,000,000 from the expenditures abroad by American tourists; and to have received $1,483,000,000 from selling their own securities to American investors.

Foreigners were credited with $1,153,000,000 additional on account of American securities, formerly held abroad, but sold back in this country during the stock market boom last year. These with a host of other minor accounts, worked out in comparison with previous years, made up the totals.

Secretary Lamont, in a forward to the compilation, said the study demonstrated that "as a creditor nation, we are not the giant that is often supposed."

"War debts aside," he added, "we are a net creditor nation in the amount of probably less than nine billions."

The figures for the balance of international payments, he also pointed out, set a new record for size, and illustrated that 1928 was a year of tremendous international exchange business.

RUSSIAN SOCIETY BATTLES ALCOHOL

Twice as Much Vodka Consumed in 1928 as in 1926 Records Show

Moscow (AP)—Forty million buckets of vodka were consumed by Russians in 1928 as against twenty million in 1926, according to statistics prepared by the Anti-Alcohol Society.

Last year the population of Russia spent $750,000,000 on vodka and other alcoholic drinks. Alcoholism in Russia turns out an average of 30,000 psychopathic cases every year.

The Anti-Alcohol Society, which was organized a year ago, now has more than 100,000 members. Due to agitation carried on by the society, Muscovites spent $2,000,000 less on vodka in the first three months of the current year than in the same period of 1928.

The society also has been credited with inducing the government to reduce the plan of vodka production, for the current year from forty-six to thirty-six million buckets, and the beer-brewing plan by ten per cent.

The society organized in 35 cities

PREDICTIONS OF WALL STREET ARE UPSET LAST WEEK

Money Rates Hold Level, and Many Act on Stock "Rights"

BY CHARLES F. SPEARE
Copyright, 1929, by Cons. Press
Wall Street, New York—Financial Review and Outlook—In two respects the predictions of Wall Street have been upset this week.

The first has to do with money rates, which were expected by now to begin to reflect the large demands from those who are subscribing to stock and bond "rights" and also to the preparations for the July 1 dividend and interest requirements. Instead of going up, money rates have held to a uniform figure of 7 per cent, though in all probability the coming week will witness a higher level.

The second upset of calculations has been in the action of the stocks to which "rights" were attached. These have been weighed down considerably by the subscription situation. There were many who thought that this would hold them back for some time.

As a matter of fact nearly every stock with "rights" attached, some of which expired this week and others which are on the eve of expiration, have jumped forward instead of backward. Notable in this list are Baltimore and Ohio, Pennsylvania, American Telephone and Telegraph, Anaconda and United States Steel common.

It has been felt that new stock issues are coming out too fast and that Wall Street would have difficulty in absorbing all of the additional shares in sight, involving payments of approximately $1,000,000,000. Apparently stockholders have taken these up, partly with borrowed money and partly from cash resources, and without much strain on the money situation. The ease with which this has been accomplished will undoubtedly encourage more financing of the same sort.

of the Soviet Union anti-alcohol demonstrations in which some 250,000 children too part. The children paraded before factory gates on pay-day with banners bearing appeals to parents to quit drinking for the sake of their children.

A prohibition case against a Tarrytown, Ill., woman was dismissed when it was found the evidence—a bottle of home brew—had blown up.

U. S. LEGION CHIEF ASKS VETS' BACKING TO HELP DISABLED

McNutt Says Hundreds of Vets, Now Jailed, Should Be in Hospitals

Eal Claire (AP)—Declaring that hundreds of World War veterans are now incarcerated in the jails of the nation when they should be receiving specialized treatment in government hospitals, Paul V. McNutt, national commander of the American legion, Sunday called upon all ex-service men to support his organization's program of legislation for disabled soldiers.

McNutt spoke before a meeting of the Tenth district Legionaires. Roy L. Brecke, Chippewa Falls, district commander and state oil inspector, presided. Others on the platform were Reg. Hoehle, department commander; Austin Peterson, state adjutant; Mrs. R. B. McCoy, president of the state auxiliary; James Burns, state service officer, and other department officials.

Stating that the American legion, the largest organization of war veterans in the world's history, is devoted to service, the national commander reviewed its program.

This, he said, emphasizes additional liberalized provisions in laws pertaining to the care of ex-service men, especially those suffering from nervous diseases; rehabilitation of orphaned homes of soldiers, child welfare; Americanization, and efforts to raise the general standards of citizenship.

Honesty in payment of taxes, respect and support of law and constitutional authority, and political and military loyalty were stressed by McNutt as attributes of good citizenship.

Referring briefly to the Universal Service law, advocated by the legion, Commander McNutt said:

"The legion has never failed ultimately to secure legislation it has sought and we will continue to advocate service in future wars by capital as well as by the man with the gun, until it is written into the laws of the land to stay."

SHOOTS HIMSELF IN HEAD, VISITS KIN, MAY GET WELL AGAIN

Milwaukee (AP)—A 60-year old man, despondent over the death of his wife, shot himself in the head and then spent the next day visiting friends and relatives before being taken to a hospital.

The victim of this weird attempt at suicide, William Lambrecht, today was in Emergency hospital, with "a fair chance" of recovery.

According to police, he shot himself behind the right ear with a .32 calibre revolver. It is said that he remained at his home for a while and then went to the home of a daughter.

Observing blood on her father's neck and hands, she questioned him, but refused to take his answer—that he had shot himself—seriously.

The man then went home and retired. He was up early yesterday and started on another round of visits that lasted late into the afternoon. Last night, however, he collapsed and the police were called.

In technical knowledge of the armament question can readily be supplied by Mr. Gibson, who has been particularly familiar with all details of the naval armament discussion ever since he went to Geneva as the personal envoy of President Coolidge.

In Messrs. Daves and Gibson the president has two aggressive minds. The assumption is that Mr. Daves will work out with Premier MacDonald the general principles and that Mr. Gibson will endeavor to line up allies for the idea on the continent. It may be that by the time the British premier visits the United States a practical understanding will have been reached as to the best methods of satisfying public opinion in both Great Britain and the United States.

There is little doubt of the underlying desire on the part of both countries to settle the armament question once for all and relieve themselves of the heavy expenditures that already have begun in connection with naval competition. The last conference called by President Coolidge would have been a success, it is known, except for the navalists' who were able to influence the British ministry. The latter party, however, is not likely to listen to extreme viewpoints from the naval continent and is much more likely to follow a conciliatory course which will lead to an agreement.

EASY FOR OTHERS
It is presumed also that once the United States and Great Britain have agreed, the other naval powers will concur in the plan, whatever it may be, because if the two leading navies are limited it will also be easy for other countries to accept a restriction. This never was a time when the so-called naval element were weaker than they are today in pressing for unlimited navies. The demand for reduced taxation is stronger abroad than it is in the United States, though the economy policies of Mr. Coolidge are still important in Washington, too.

Hoover has the stage to himself and that means the unrestrained exercise of publicity power in getting public opinion lined up behind the program to limit armament.

J. D. Dyer, Green Bay, division engineer of the Chicago and North-western railroad company was in Appleton Friday inspecting work on the E. Wisconsin-ave subway.

Fiction Has It

That "Steinway ownership is extravagance"

The Fact Is

That Steinway is the lowest-priced piano ever made, if musical quality, long service and high resale value are to be taken as the basis of estimation. Consider musical quality first — all sources of competent information throughout the world are united in the conclusion that there is no other piano to compare with it. Neither in service is there any other piano to compare with it. Delicately adjusted as a scientific instrument, yet it is so strong and durable that it has established the tradition that to buy a Steinway is to buy a piano once for all.

Financial And Market News

CALL MONEY RISES TO RETARD ADVANCE OF STOCK MARKET

Recovery Is Not Completely Checked—See Big Rail Market

BY STANLEY W. PRENOSIL
Associated Press Financial Editor
New York.—(AP)—Beginning of the mid-year call money stringency today brought a flood of selling into the stock market which retarded, but failed to check completely, the recovery in stocks which has been under way for more than a week. Trading showed a marked expansion in volume, due to increased activities of pools which are counting on a huge reinvestment demand next month.

Except for a sharp increase in California crude production, most of the week-end trade news was favorable. Steel operations in the Youngstown district were reported to be at practical capacity, retail trade is reported to have received considerable stimulus from the warm weather of the past ten days, and the demand for copper is reported to be increasing.

Call money renewed unchanged at 7 per cent but advanced to 8 on the heavy calling of loans, and threatened to go higher. Time money and commercial paper rates held steady.

Predictions of a big "railroad market" this summer appeared to be on the way to realization. Atchison, Pennsylvania, New Haven and Union Pacific all moved into new high ground. New York & Harlem, which ordinarily changes hands in small lots, ran up 8 points.

Wide fluctuations again took place in the high price specialties. Adams Express added 35 points to its 40 points gain of last week by touching 625, which contrasts with a low of 485 a month ago. Auburn Auto soared 14 points to a new high at 321. Allis Chalmers 7 to a new high at 251 1/2 and Crucible Steel 4 to a new high at 100 1/2. R. H. Macy, Marmon Motors, United Aircraft and Frank G. Shattuck sold 4 to 7 1/2 points higher.

ROSEBUSH TO SPEAK AT CONFERENCE AT LAKE GENEVA CAMP

Group to Study Human Relations in Industry from July 18 to 21

J. G. Rosebush, one of the directors of the local Y. M. C. A., will be one of the principal speakers at the twelfth annual Lake Geneva conference on Human Relations in Industry to be conducted under auspices of the Industrial departments of the state Y. M. C. A. from July 18 to 21 at Lake Geneva. Mr. Rosebush also is a member of the conference committee.

The Outreach of Prosperity on Character is the topic of the address to be given by Mr. Rosebush. Other speakers include Charles Mills, Ohio; Clark Fulmer, Nebraska; Dr. C. W. Hopkins, Chicago, Ill.; D. C. Barr, Moine, Ill.; T. E. Van Meter, Moine, Ill.; Frank Morrison, Detroit, Mich.; J. S. Clark, Chicago; and Victor Olander, also of Chicago.

Following each speech presentation there will be a period of discussion under the leadership of Earl W. Brandenburgh, executive secretary of the Central Region of the National Council Y. M. C. A. This will not only give opportunity to raise questions suggested by the presentation, but also will give a chance for the exchange of experience represented by the conference at large.

Special group conferences will be arranged on topics which the delegates want to study further. Also an opportunity will be given to meet in small groups men from other industries carrying similar responsibilities.

An eighteen-hole golf course, 13 tennis courts, a fleet of rowboats, a completely equipped athletic field for baseball and other facilities are provided for.

The Lake Geneva Industrial conference has become an established institution. The 1928 program is planned for senior and junior executives and their representatives, including workmen. The various topics are built around the general theme of human relations in industry and are presented by men of wide practical experience and a thorough knowledge of the subjects they present. College camp because of its location and traditions is an ideal spot for such a conference and for the consideration of those vital questions of human relations.

FORMER TREASURER OF STATE GETS MONEY BACK

Madison—(AP)—It took two legislatures and two governors to give former state treasurer Henry Johnson the money back he lost in suits against him under the Hartford Bank cases. The legislature of 1927 appropriated him the full amount of his claim. Gov. Zimmerman vetoed the appropriation. The legislature compromised with the governor, giving Mr. Johnson half, or something over $300. The 1929 legislature has just completed and the governor signed, an appropriation of the remainder. With announcement of his signature of that bill, Gov. Kohler announced he had approved three Senate and four Assembly bills, all of which attracted little public attention.

Talks To Parents

WHEN EXPLANATION FAILS
By Alice Judson Peale

We are told by those with liberal theories on the education of children that we always should explain things to them. We know that often when a youngster is on the verge of rage or tears we are able to check the storm with a few clear and simple remarks.

But most of us have found that there are occasions when the remedy does not work. Sometimes the more we explain to the child why he may not do so and so, or why he must do thus and so, the more vehement, incoherent and disorganized is his response.

There are certain types of children who take their emotions more violently than others, who in times of stress cannot accept the fact which balks their wishes. The problem with them is not to make them understand but to make them accept emotionally an unpleasant reality.

One evening after supper Patsy discovered that she had lost her doll's stocking in the park. It had been a long walk and she was tired and irritable.

At once the recovery of her doll's stocking became to her the only important thing in life. She wanted it. She must have it. But it was gone, lost, far away in the park somewhere. That made no difference. She wanted it and must have it—right away—now! The tantrum mounted.

Her mother said no more. Silently, despite furious protests Patsy was undressed and gently tucked into her bed. During a lull in the storm her mother asked, "Which story shall I read you this evening?"

Silence. Then through breathless sobs there came the answer "I want to hear—about the candy boy." The scene was over.

There are times when we need all of that "mother's intuition" we have

New Animals Appearing In Zoo At Alicia Park

The population of Alicia park zoo is gradually increasing, and although it probably won't reach such proportions as the mammoth managers of Lincoln park, Chicago, or Washington park, Milwaukee, for some time, it continues to hold the interest of local residents as well as tourists who spend the night at the park.

A friendly atmosphere exists at the local zoo and each animal is set upon a pedestal of its own by the children living near the park. Each member of the little colony plays a separate part in gaining the attention of interested spectators.

At present the colony is made up of about 20 animals including a bear, deer, goat, monkey, opossum, parrot, white rats, white mice, ring-necked pheasants, rabbits and guinea pigs.

The animals live in peaceful bliss and are never forced to shrink from the roar of a king of beasts as is the case in the larger zoos. Neither are they much concerned about name plates on the front of their cages where in larger zoos one find such inscription as Nrsus Acrtos or Ursus Americanus. To local people it's just plan bear, monkey, or skunk.

CHILDREN LIKE TEDDY
There is Teddy, the bear cub, who delights in having children tickle his nose and is more than affectionate when chocolate drops are offered as a form of negotiation. He's a pretty sick looking bruno when it rains and there aren't any "kids" around to pester him. On such days, Teddy is satisfied to stay in his hole and paw at flies or doze peacefully.

Tommy, the deer, who during the past few months has grown from the fawn stage and has lost his spots, is just as interesting with his greedy manner of snatching at things. His chief delight seems to be to attract the attention of the children from Teddy.

Piotre or Peter, the monkey, offers just as much amusement as a carded of his brothers or sisters. Some days he is in a more or less receptive mood and on others he is a most "ornery" cuss. Peanuts thrown into his cage with a friendly purpose are sailed back at the giver twice as fast.

Until Carl the goat learns to behave himself he is to be kept in solitary confinement where he can but the ways of the main animal house to his heart's content. It would hardly be a matter of survival of the fittest, were he permitted to romp with Tommy or Teddy.

BAKER ASKED TO WRITE ARTICLES

Director of Music in Appleton Schools Will Outline County Program

Dr. Earl L. Baker, director of music in Appleton schools, has been asked to write a number of articles for the National Bureau for the Advancement of Music, to be published in pamphlet form. The subjects in which the bureau is interested are the Outagamie-co rural school music program, music in the parochial schools, and the question of training the boy voice in the junior high schools.

The Etude, music magazine, also has asked Dr. Baker to submit articles for publication.

Thirty additional schools in the county have announced their intention of taking up the music program, according to Dr. Baker, and several superintendents of schools in other counties have started arrangements for a program similar to the one used in Outagamie-co.

An extensive program of research in music has been planned for next year, and the results of next year's

PABST, FRANK GIVE MONEY TO WET GROUP

Madison—(AP)—Fred Pabst of the brewing company family in Milwaukee and Edwin D. A. Frank, also of Milwaukee, are the only two Wisconsin contributors to campaign funds of the Association against the Prohibition Amendment, reports filed with Congress and the Wisconsin Secretary of state's office reveal. Pabst listed a contribution of $700 and Frank's a rounded to $100. The report here supplements one filed in May shortly after repeal of the state's dry law.

John J. Raskob, New York, former national chairman for the Democratic party, contributed $14,525 to the association, the report shows. The first report credited him with $13,333. The du Pont family of Wilmington, Del., also has increased its contributions since the May report. In all, more than $14,700 was reported by members of the family.

Moscow—(AP)—Soviet prisons have instituted convicts' courts in which inmates try each other for such offenses as swearing, card playing, wilfully "cutting" grammar lessons and dodging work in prison shops.

Investigations, combined with facts learned this year, will place Appleton in a leading position from the standpoint of public school music.

Gretna, La.—"After my first child was born I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a run-down condition. I could not walk across my room at times, I was so weak. A friend induced me to take the Vegetable Compound. Since that time I have also taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Herb Compound and the Pills for Constipation, and I have used Lydia E. You Can Buy
Graham-Paige Quality
at $855

at factory

MANY people are surprised to learn that Graham-Paige quality can be purchased for as little as $855, at factory.

The 612, with prices beginning at this figure, is a large, powerful automobile.

When you lift the hood, you see a big engine—delivering 62 horsepower, with smooth operation assured by good balance. A seven-bearing crankshaft (2½ inches in diameter) is supported by a rigid motor block. Water jackets extend clear to the bottom of every cylinder, giving complete and uniform cooling for dependable performance and long life.

The internal expanding hydraulic brakes, protected from dirt and water, are larger than usual in a car at this price. Brake drums are machined absolutely true, insuring contact for the full surface of the brake shoes on all four wheels. This means less need for adjustments and relining, and greater security through more efficient braking.

The emergency brake is entirely separate, giving the protection—which we believe essential—of two independent braking systems.

All through the 612, you will find extra size, weight and strength. Every one of its 3,125 pounds contributes directly to better performance and increased comfort and safety of its passengers.

The bodies are roomy and beautifully finished. Upholstery is genuine mohair, with a guarantee of long wear attached to every cushion.

Study the 612 and get a demonstration before you select your next car.
